CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—One of America's most brilliant aviation careers came to a tragic end today with the death of Eddie Stinson, pioneer flyer and airplane builder, from injuries received in the crash of his cabin monoplane.

The veteran aviator, whose aerial exploits have thrilled thousands, died in Illinois Central Hospital at one o'clock this morning, after doctors had battled through the night to save his life. He was 37 years old.

Death was caused by a crushed chest and internal injuries.

Meanwhile, Stinson's three passengers were in a hospital in serious condition from injuries received when the famous designer's newest model cabin monoplane fell to earth last night on the Jackson Park Golf Course.

Stinson himself was the most seriously injured and doctors gave up hope of saving his life a few minutes after he and his three passengers were rushed to the hospital. Nevertheless, they continued to battle for the noted flyer's survival until just a few minutes before the end.

The injured passengers were: Fred M. Gillies, 36, steel company executive and president of the chamber of commerce of East Chicago, a former all-American football star at Cornell. He received an injured spine and a broken leg.

Clarke Field, 30, Chicago representative of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation. He suffered a broken shoulder and internal injuries.

John Tompkins, 36, an East Chicago mechanic. He sustained bruises, cuts and shock.

The crash occurred after Stinson had completed a series of demonstrations of his new model at the municipal airport. He and his passengers were on their way back to Wayne, Mich., where the Stinson factory is located.

As the plane began soaring over Lake Michigan its tanks became exhausted. Lacking fuel, the famed pilot turned the ship about and headed for the Jackson Park golf course which borders the lake. He was gliding down to a safe landing when suddenly the right wing of the ship struck a seventy-five-foot flagpole. The wing fell off and the plane dropped to the ground.

Police rushed to the scene and pulled the injured men out of the coiled and twisted wreckage. The fortunate circumstance that pilot and passengers did not at once lose their lives was attributed to the fact that the ship did not catch fire.

Stinson, whose 1,700,000 miles in the air made him the dean of American flyers, was so hopelessly injured when he reached the hospital that Dr. William T. Harsha said his death would be but a matter of a few hours. The veteran flyer never regained consciousness after the crash.

Notified of his condition, the aviator's wife made immediate preparations to rush from her home in Wayne to her husband's bedside. She was about to board a plane late last night when she was advised she could not reach Chicago in time to see her husband alive. She gave up the trip.

WILL TEST SANITY OF ACCUSED SLAYER

WARREN, O., Jan. 26.—Two physicians, appointed by the common pleas court, today completed preparations for a hearing to test the sanity of Arch F. Knisely, 42, prominent Warren clubman and lumber dealer who is accused of slaying his wife in a downtown bank lobby.

Kniesely pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity when he was arraigned on a first degree murder indictment before Judge Lynn B. Griffith here yesterday. Attorney Robert Day, appointed by the court as defense counsel, asked Judge Griffith to select a sanity commissioner to examine his client.

Dr. L. J. Karnosh of Cleveland City Hospital, and Dr. H. M. Page of Warren were named by the court to conduct the sanity examination.

ARCHBISHOP IS AGAIN EXPELLED

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Archbishop Francisco Orozco Jimenez of Guadalajara was out of the country today, expelled by the government, for the third time.

Reasons for the expulsion were withheld.

The archbishop, one of the world's best Latin scholars, was flown to the American border by airplane after his arrests here.

CLAIM SOLDIERS IN HOME ARE FLEECE FOR PENSION FUNDS

Report Bootleggers, Vice
Mongers Defraud
Inmates

SANDUSKY, O., Jan. 26.—Revelation that professional "leeches" are fleecing inmates of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home of their pensions was made here today as the investigation into charges of mismanagement at the institution by the senate investigating committee was about to get underway.

Under instructions from the Erie County Grand Jury, Sheriff John W. Parker and his deputies went to the home today to probe into charges that the war veterans were being victimized by bootleggers and other vice mongers.

The grand jury, following a secret investigation into charges of inmates and officials of the home, directed Sheriff Parker to "clean up" the institution of the reported vice conditions.

A group of bootleggers, gamblers and women operating in the community surrounding the home "have been thriving" on the pensions of the war veterans, the grand jury charged.

World War veterans were said to have attracted many of the vice dealers to the institution. Of the 980 inmates, more than half are World War veterans.

The senate investigating committee will begin its probe into the charges of "petticoat rule" and mismanagement at the institution tomorrow.

Commandant Perry L. Null stated today that he had received word from State Welfare Director John McSweeney that the committee would arrive tomorrow afternoon and launch the investigation immediately.

Among the charges to be investigated at the home is that too much power is being exercised over the inmates by Mrs. Null, wife of the commandant, it was learned.

The action of the grand jury in ordering a clean up of vice conditions at the institution was not protested by the planned investigation of the senate committee, according to county officials.

START ATTEMPT TO OUST PROSECUTOR

LANCASTER, O., Jan. 26.—Ouster proceedings were continued today in common pleas court here against Prosecutor R. S. Cunningham of Fairfield County.

Removal of the prosecutor was asked in a petition signed by a group of citizens who charged irregular handling of county funds in the prosecutor's office.

Judge Joseph W. Adkins of Circleville, is hearing the case.

Grave Complications May Ensnare Says Council; Chen's Successor Restores Confidence; Japs Occupy Harbin

GENEVA, Jan. 26.—In a secret session lasting two hours and a half, the League of Nations council decided today to warn both China and Japan of the serious consequences likely to result from the situation at Shanghai unless remedial steps are taken by both parties immediately.

Neither Dr. W. W. Yen nor Naotake Sato, Chinese and Japanese delegates respectively, attended the session.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, president of the council, and other leading members of the body will call upon the Chinese and Japanese delegates this evening to communicate the results of their deliberations.

Japan will be warned of the "grave complications that prolongation of the Shanghai situation might entail," while China will be urged for the anti-Japanese activities which resulted in landing of Japanese marines and the dispatch of a fleet of warships to Shanghai harbor.

Dr. Yen will be requested to inform his government that the League council believes China should abstain from recurrence of these activities in behalf of international peace.

The council is anxiously awaiting direct news of the Shanghai situation from diplomatic representatives on the scene.

Smaller powers represented on the council launched a move today to name Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and former president of the council, as successor to Sir Eric Drummond, who has announced his intention of resigning as secretary-general of the league.

MUKDEN, Jan. 26.—Japanese "puppet" troops under the command of General Hsichia today peacefully occupied Harbin, chief city of northern Manchuria.

Preceded by Japanese airplanes dropping leaflets advising the populace not to fear the approach of the Japanese-directed army, small groups of Gen. Hsichia's troops entered and took control of the city, according to an official announcement by Japanese military headquarters here.

The bulk of the army, which belonged to the independent government of Kirin, whence they came, camped just outside the city. A tense atmosphere prevailed in the city nevertheless, and newly-recruited police resorted to frequent firing of guns, although none were reported hurt. It was stated the Kirin troops were on an anti-bandit expedition.

It was said the entry into Harbin was in accordance with a previously arranged compromise. Everything was believed to be in readiness.

STILL HESITATE ON OPERATION ON BABY

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—X-rays and other scientific marvels will be used in tests today to determine whether baby Diana Moore will get her one chance in a thousand to grow up a happy, normal, healthy girl.

Skilled surgeons will conduct the tests at the medical center after which they will decide whether to perform the delicate, dangerous operation on the infant's brain, which is successful, will prevent her from growing up an imbecile.

Despite the pleas of the baby's mother, Mrs. Lillian Moore, herself only 18, that the operation be performed, experts hesitated to carry it out because there are 999 chances out of 1000 that Diana will not survive the ordeal.

Dr. O. A. Spler admitted only surgery can cure Diana of a strange brain deformity which doomed her to the life of an idiot unless it is corrected. He favored taking the one slim chance of saving the baby, but other surgeons interposed moral and scientific objections.

ADMISSION CLEARS MYSTERY IN MURDER

COVINGTON, Ky., Jan. 26.—The fatal shooting of Mrs. Hulda Lang, 29, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and the serious wounding of her husband, Frank Lang, here on Dec. 21, near solution today with the reported confession of Henry Settle, 30, of Newport, Ky.

Settle, according to police, identified Larry Volmer, 27, also of Newport, as one of the gunmen. Volmer is now in jail here. Settle confessed to driving the gunman's automobile.

Charles Wilcox, 24, who is being held at Richmond, Ind., for further investigation in connection with the Lang case, has not been identified by Settle, police said. Detectives are searching for the third gunman whose identity was said to be known to them.

SENSATIONAL CASE ENDS WHEN PARTIES ADOPT COMPROMISE

Startling Divorce Testimony Silenced By Action

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Jan. 26.—Any possible sensational developments in the exciting divorce case of Willard Hostetler, 23, against his pretty vivacious wife, Treva, 21, were hushed today by a compromise.

Hostetler at first sued for divorce on the grounds that his wife frequently slipped away from meetings of the "O. N. O."—"Our Night Out" Club—to hold trysts with Rev. W. H. Sanders, 35, married and the father of a four-year-old daughter.

But yesterday, attorneys for Mrs. Hostetler dashed cold water on the hearing insofar as the curious spectators were concerned, by agreeing to stop contesting the action if the plaintiff amended his petition to include only "extreme cruelty" and omit references to the minister.

Judge E. E. Lindsay granted the motion for amendment and the hearing ended—much to the disappointment of 800 or so persons who jammed the courtroom.

The case will now proceed to its conclusion without further hearings.

The "extreme cruelty" ground will be based, attorneys intimated, on the refusal of Mrs. Hostetler to tell her husband where she went when she left the "O. N. O." meetings and pajama parties.

Previously, Mrs. Hostetler, an attractive brunette vigorously denied from the witness stand that she had ever held trysts with the minister.

CAPITAL AND LABOR CONFERENCE HALTS

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—While the nation eagerly awaited the outcome of the joint conference between railway capital and labor, the meeting stood stalemated today.

The joint conference was temporarily adjourned while the executives of the twenty-one railway labor unions convened to consider the ten per cent voluntary wage reduction for one year sought by the committee of nine presidents representing the real capital of the country.

Ten of the twenty-one unions voted on the wage reduction request last night, it was learned today. Outcome of their vote was not divulged.

ANGLO-FRENCH DISCUSSION ON DEBT PROPOSAL IS UNDER WAY

PARIS, Jan. 26.—Anglo-French discussions toward a debt proposal again were under way here today, with important sessions between leading experts of both countries scheduled in both Paris and London.

Apparently still as far from an accord as ever, representatives of both countries strove to come to some sort of a conclusion.

Two definite proposals, one by each country, were to be considered.

One, set forth by Lord Tyrrell, British ambassador, at a meeting with Premier Pierre Laval, provided for postponement of the Lausanne conference until June

RECRUITS FOR GUARD UNIT IN XENIA SOUGHT

Complete Preliminary Work; Commander Of Regiment Here

Reorganization of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, long in process of preparation, was in full swing Tuesday.

With Colonel H. Rudolph, Cincinnati, commander of the 147th Regiment and Lieutenant Perry D. Swindler of Company L doing active recruiting duty at the armory here, the campaign to give the Xenia unit a complete new personnel of sixty men, was reaching its climax.

Colonel Rudolph opened recruiting service at the armory at 10 a. m. and expected to continue in charge until midnight. He will repeat this program Wednesday and, if the company roster is not filled then, he will remain in Xenia the rest of the week, should this be found necessary.

Recruiting was started with a completely clean slate since the entire company, as constituted when the reorganization agitation was started, has been transferred to the reserves, leaving the way open for a hand-picked group in the new company.

In effecting the transfer only the name of First Sergeant Carroll Hildebrecht was retained, since it was necessary to keep one member.

PRETTY NURSE WILL TESTIFY FOR STATE AGAINST MRS. JUDD

Alleged Confession To Murder Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26.—Lucille Moore, pretty dark eyed clinical nurse, the fuse which the state contends ignited the spark of jealousy which prompted the "double trunk murder," was certain to testify today at the trial of Winifred Ruth Judd when the state hoped to complete its case.

Mrs. Judd's lawyers prepared to open their defense based on the contention that the 27-year-old blue eyed defendant was insane, and that she killed in self-defense. If she did slay her two women friends, Hedvig Samuelson, invalid school teacher, and Agnes Anne Lerol, X-ray nurse.

Before any more witnesses can be heard the jury will hear the contents of the fantastic letter, which Mrs. Judd allegedly wrote on both sides of nine telegraph blanks and in which she assertedly confessed to her husband, Dr. William Judd, that she killed the two women in self-defense.

The letter was identified by a handwriting expert as having been written by Mrs. Judd.

While the prosecution contends the letter offers conclusive evidence that Mrs. Judd killed her two friends in premeditated murder and is a confession on her part, the defense welcomed its introduction at the trial.

The letter contradicts practically all of the facts testified to by the prosecution witnesses, and Mrs. Judd's attorneys indicated they would use it to support their contention it was the writing of an insane woman.

SEEK HIT-SKIP DRIVER

IRONTON, O., Jan. 26.—A hit-skip driver who ran down and fatally injured John Le Master, 70, farmer, was sought today by Lawrence County authorities. LeMaster was enroute home from a visit to a neighbor when the accident happened.

FLYING SECRETARY COMING HERE

DAVID S. INGALLS

Civic club members, war veterans and other interested citizens will have an opportunity to hear David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, "The Flying Secretary" of the Navy, when he appears as guest speaker on the program at the annual community banquet Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

The air chief was scheduled to fly to Xenia from Akron early Tuesday afternoon, spend the night in this city and then take off again Wednesday morning but bad weather conditions forced him to land at Columbus and continue to Xenia by motor.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY, JR.

WOMAN INJURED BY BOMB BLAST

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Labor disputes were blamed today for the mysterious explosion of a giant bomb in the rear of the Crest apartment hotel, which injured a young woman and wrought heavy property damage.

Mrs. Hulda Lamonde, 25, was severely cut by flying glass from one of the numerous windows shattered by the explosion. The blast routed 200 tenants of the building and demolished several automobiles which were parked in the neighborhood.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The treasury balance of Jan. 23, $348,877,090.61; Expenditures, $5,192,717.79; customs receipts, $21,683,101.70.

Report 2,000 Killed In Single Battle Near
Capital

COLON, P. C. Z., Jan. 26.—Hundreds have been slain, possibly thousands, in the Communist revolt sweeping the little republic of El Salvador, according to word received here today through strict censorship lines.

More than 2,000 were killed in one battle outside San Salvador, the capital, according to one unconfirmed report from Guatemala City.

Reports from various sources, including the word of travelers just arrived from the strife-torn republic, agree that the number of deaths is well above 500. Due to the inaccessibility of the interior, where fighting was heaviest, and to the strict government censorship on all but business messages the higher estimates were readily agreed possible.

Terrorism prevailed as Communists marched through interior cities, killing ruthlessly. Many prominent officials were said to have been victims as well as business representatives of foreign nations.

American, British and Canadian warships stood by awaiting definite word of danger to citizens of their countries.

One report stated a Communist army was marching toward the capital, seeking the life of Provisional President Martinez.

Reports conflicted as to whether the movement was purely Communist, or whether the Reds had been joined in a general political uprising by all factions opposed to the government.

Private citizens of San Salvador were given arms and permission to shoot to kill Communists on sight.

DEFICIT NOW OVER $1,500,000,000

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Uncle Sam's deficit passed the $1,500,000,000 mark today.

Treasury figures show that the excess of expenditures over receipts was $1,271,000,000 greater than at the same time last year. Receipts amounted to $1,209,000,000, decrease of $622,000,000 from last year, while expenditures of $2,725,000,000 increased by $622,000,000.

MANUFACTURER AND CHICAGO CUB OWNER SUCCUMBS IN SLEEP

Built Huge Fortune In
Chewing Gum; Was
Rabid Fan

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26.—William Wrigley, Jr., 70, millionaire chewing gum manufacturer and sportsman, died in his sleep at his winter home at the Arizona Biltmore Hotel here today.

Physicians said death was caused by heart disease.

Members of the family, including his son P. K. Wrigley, and Mrs. P. K. Wrigley, were at the bedside.

R. A. Kirkman, who announced the death of the noted Chicago capitalist, said that the illness had not been considered serious until only a few hours before the end. Last night Wrigley was reported much improved from an attack of indigestion.

Wrigley, whose hobby has been the development of the Chicago National League baseball team, was also well known on the Pacific coast for the huge entertainment project which he built up at Catalina Island.

Wrigley also owned the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

J. H. Patrick, business manager of the Wrigley enterprises in the southwest, and a daughter, Mrs. James R. Offield, were also at the bedside when death came.

The manufacturer was born in Philadelphia on Jan. 30, 1861. He began business with his father, but moved to Chicago in 1891 and set up a chewing gum factory. His fortune, which was built up entirely by his own efforts, was counted as one of the greatest in the middle west.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—William Wrigley, Jr., who died today at Phoenix, Ariz., will long be remembered by this, his adopted city, as a businessman of extraordinary acumen and a patron of sport.

Invariably Democratic, friendly and cheery, he earned a reputation for being a "regular fellow."

Wrigley's business was the manufacture of chewing gum; his hobby was baseball. His memory will be kept alive here by the monumental Wrigley Building on Michigan Boulevard, and by the high record of the Chicago Cubs.

In a recent interview he said his attitude toward baseball was that of any rabid fan. He was never a believer in "front office" interference in his ball clubs, pre-

BANKER ARRESTED FOR FALSE ENTRIES

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 26.—Arrested in Wellsville, O., by police, Thomas A. Sheets, 45, president of the People's Bank at Wellsville for fourteen years, was to be brought here today for a federal hearing on charges of making false record entries and a false report to the comptroller of currency.

The warrant for Sheets' arrest was issued by Assistant U. S. District Attorney William McDermott, who announced that a department of justice auditor will be sent to Wellsville to investigate the records at the bank, the only bank in Wellsville.

The total amount of losses sustained by the bank through the alleged defalcations of the accused cashier is unknown. McDermott said. National bank examiners, the government attorney revealed, already have discovered fifteen known false entries since April, 1931.

TWO DAUGHTERS OF GOVERNOR INJURED

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 26.—The jinx of automobile accidents still followed Governor George White today. This time however, the governor's daughters, Misses Mary Louise and Charlotte, were the victims.

Injured in a collision at a street intersection here, the White sisters were taken to Grant Hospital where each was treated for cuts and bruises about the face, scalp and legs. Miss Mary White was released from the hospital after being treated, but her sister was kept overnight for observation.

EXPECT WHITE WILL REVEAL CANDIDACY

LIMA, O., Jan. 26.—Lima today set the stage for the repetition of a political drama first enacted here two years ago.

Believing Governor George White will announce his candidacy for re-election at a Democratic rally here Thursday night, the city made extensive plans to receive the governor, the politicians and the newspaper men who will accompany him to Allen County.

For the letter contradicts practically all of the facts testified to by the prosecution witnesses, and Mrs. Judd's attorneys indicated they would use it to support their contention it was the writing of an insane woman.

FLYING SECRETARY COMING HERE

DAVID S. INGALLS

Civic club members, war veterans and other interested citizens will have an opportunity to hear David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, "The Flying Secretary" of the Navy, when he appears as guest speaker on the program at the annual community banquet Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock at the Masonic Temple.

The air chief was scheduled to fly to Xenia from Akron early Tuesday afternoon, spend the night in this city and then take off again Wednesday morning but bad weather conditions forced him to land at Columbus and continue to Xenia by motor.

HUNDREDS SLAIN IN COMMUNIST REVOLT SWEEPING SALVADOR

Report 2,000 Killed In Single Battle Near
Capital

COLON, P. C. Z., Jan. 26.—Hundreds have been slain, possibly thousands, in the Communist revolt sweeping the little republic of El Salvador, according to word received here today through strict censorship lines.

More than 2,000 were killed in one battle outside San Salvador, the capital, according to one unconfirmed report from Guatemala City.

Reports from various sources, including the word of travelers just arrived from the strife-torn republic, agree that the number of deaths is well above 500. Due to the inaccessibility of the interior, where fighting was heaviest, and to the strict government censorship on all but business messages the higher estimates were readily agreed possible.

Terrorism prevailed as Communists marched through interior cities, killing ruthlessly. Many prominent officials were said to have been victims as well as business representatives of foreign nations.

American, British and Canadian warships stood by awaiting definite word of danger to citizens of their countries.

One report stated a Communist army was marching toward the capital, seeking the life of Provisional President Martinez.

Reports conflicted as to whether the movement was purely Communist, or whether the Reds had been joined in a general political uprising by all factions opposed to the government.

Private citizens of San Salvador were given arms and permission to shoot to kill Communists on sight.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—Labor disputes were blamed today for the mysterious explosion of a giant bomb in the rear of the Crest apartment hotel, which injured a young woman and wrought heavy property damage.

Mrs. Hilda Lamonde, 25, was severely cut by flying glass from one of the numerous windows shattered by the explosion. The blast routed 200 tenants of the building and demolished several automobiles which were parked in the neighborhood.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The treasury balance of Jan. 23, $348,877,090.61; Expenditures, $5,192,717.79; customs receipts, $21,683,101.70.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Uncle Sam's deficit passed the $1,500,000,000 mark today.

Treasury figures show that the excess of expenditures over receipts was $1,571,000,000 greater than at the same time last year.

Receipts amounted to $1,209,000,000, decrease of $622,000,000 from last year, while expenditures of $2,781,000,000 increased by $622,000,000.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Lima today set the stage for the repetition of a political drama first enacted here two years ago.

Believing Governor George White will announce his candidacy for re-election at a Democratic rally here Thursday night, the city made extensive plans to receive the governor, the politicians and the newspaper men who will accompany him to Allen County.

MANUFACTURER AND CHICAGO CUB OWNER SUCCUMBS IN SLEEP

Built Huge Fortune In
Chewing Gum; Was
Rabid Fan

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 26.—William Wrigley, Jr., 70, millionaire chewing gum manufacturer and sportsman, died in his sleep at his winter home at the Arizona Biltmore Hotel here today.

Physicians said death was caused by heart disease.

Members of the family, including his son P. K. Wrigley, and Mrs. P. K. Wrigley, were at the bedside.

E. A. Kirkman, who announced the death of the noted Chicago capitalist, said that the illness had not been considered serious until only a few hours before the end. Last night Wrigley was reported much improved from an attack of indigestion.

Wrigley, whose hobby has been the development of the Chicago National League baseball team, was also well known on the Pacific coast for the huge entertainment project which he built up at Catalina Island.

Wrigley also owned the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

J. H. Patrick, business manager of the Wrigley enterprises in the southwest, and a daughter, Mrs. James R. Offield, were also at the bedside when death came.

The manufacturer was born in Philadelphia on Sept. 30, 1861. He began business with his father, but moved to Chicago in 1891 and set up a chewing gum factory. His fortune, which was built up entirely by his own efforts, was counted as one of the greatest in the middle west.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—William Wrigley, Jr., who died today at Phoenix, Ariz., will long be remembered by this, his adopted city, as a businessman of extraordinary acumen and a patron of sport.

Invariably Democratic, friendly and chery, he earned a reputation for being a "regular fellow."

Wrigley's business was the manufacture of chewing gum; his hobby was baseball. His memory will be kept alive here by the monumental Wrigley Building on Michigan Boulevard, and by the high record of the Chicago Cubs.

In a recent interview he said his attitude toward baseball was that of an rabid fan. He was never a believer in "front office" interference in his ball clubs, pre-

BANKER ARRESTED FOR FALSE ENTRIES

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 26.—Arrested in Wellsville, O., by police, Thomas A. Sheets, 45, cashier of the People's Bank at Wellsville for fourteen years, was to be brought here today for a federal hearing on charges of making false record entries and a false report to the comptroller of currency.

The warrant for Sheets' arrest was issued by Assistant U. S. District Attorney William McDermott, who announced that a department of justice auditor will be sent to Wellsville to investigate the records at the bank, the only bank in Wellsville.

The total amount of losses sustained by the bank through the alleged defalcations of the accused cashier is unknown. McDermott said, National bank examiners, the government attorney revealed, already have discovered fifteen known false entries since April, 1931.

Reports from various sources, including the word of travelers just arrived from the strife-torn republic, agree that the number of deaths is well above 500. Due to the inaccessibility of the interior, where fighting was heaviest, and to the strict government censorship on all but business messages the higher estimates were readily agreed possible.

CADET MARKSMAN AT HOME GETS HIGHEST REWARD FOR HONOR

In recognition of the fact he has qualified as a distinguished rifleman, the highest medal in shooting that the National Rifle Association of America bestows upon any boy under the age of 19 has been awarded by the association to Cadet Captain Clendon Lakes, 18, of the O. S. and S. O. Home.

Presentation of the medal to the cadet captain was made recently by Capt. Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the institution, who complimented him highly upon receiving this rare honor. Lakes is the first student of the Home ever to achieve this distinction. The superintendent, in a brief talk, also discussed the merits of shooting and the benefits that may be derived from developing expert marksmanship.

Captain Lakes is a member of the Cadet Rifle Club, associated with the National Rifle Association, junior division. To become a distinguished marksman, a candidate must meet certain requirements of the national body, necessitating constant practice in shooting and many hours of conscientious and diligent training.

The National Rifle Association has occasion to present about thirty of these medals each year out of a possible 5,000 or more contestants who annually compete for them.

WILBERFORCE

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lee, widow of Bishop B. E. Lee, one-time prominent A. M. E. Churchman, were largely attended at the residence near Wilberforce Monday at 2 o'clock.

The services were conducted by Dr. George Henderson of Wilberforce, who preached the funeral discourse. Bishop J. H. Jones also paid tribute to Mrs. Lee and Miss Hallie Q. Brown read the obituary. Dean George F. Woodson pronounced the invocation.

Music was provided by Charles Saulsbury and members of the choir and Mrs. Wales sang "Going Home." There were many floral tributes and resolutions of condolence were read from many sources. They included resolutions from the general faculty, read by Mrs. J. H. Washington, dean of women; from Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Payne Theological Seminary, the Woman's Mite Missionary Society, The Neighborhood Club, the Wilberforce University Alumni Association, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity and Gamma Phi Fraternity. Many telegrams of condolence were received from all parts of the country.

The service was attended by many out-of-town people. Burial was made in Tarbox Cemetery, Cedarville, the pall bearers being Walter Linton, Clarence Wright, James Hargrave, Thomas B. Smith, George Hinkson and Kenneth E. S. White.

TO ATTEND CLINIC

Dr. H. R. Hawkins is leaving Thursday for Detroit, Mich., where he has been invited to attend a clinic at the Henry Ford Hospital, Friday. He expects to return to Xenia Monday.

DAMAGES SOUGHT IN ACTION FILED HERE BASED ON ACCIDENT

Suit demanding $500 damages, based on the contention the auto he was driving was forced off the road, overturned and was wrecked last April 30, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by William R. Watt, farmer, near Cedarville, against Mrs. Sam Goldberg, 3949 Red Bird Ave., Cincinnati, O.

Watt asserts that he was driving south along state route 72, between Cedarville and Jamestown, at a reasonably safe distance behind the defendant's car when the woman driver, traveling in the same direction, stopped her machine abruptly in the center of the highway without first signalling her intention.

The sudden action, Watt avers, forced his own machine off the road and into a ditch, about one-fourth of a mile south of Cedarville.

The plaintiff claims that Mrs. Goldberg, driving her husband's car, stopped directly opposite a team of horses going north along the berm of the pike on her left, and that her action was for the sole purpose of inquiring of the driver of the team the route she desired to take. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

THOMAS H. CONKLIN GIVEN OSTEOPATHY DEGREE ON FRIDAY

Thomas H. Conklin, Xenia, was one of a class of twenty-two students to receive the degree of Doctor of Osteopathy at impressive mid-year commencement exercises of the Kirksville College of Osteopathy at Kennedy Theater at Kirksville, Mo., Friday.

At the same time Dr. Conklin received the degree of Bachelor of Science. He formerly attended Miami University, Oxford, O., and the University of Lexington, Lexington, Ky. He entered the osteopathic college in January, 1928. During the past four years he has been active in the affairs of his college and is a member of Alpha Tau Sigma professional fraternity and of Psi Sigma Alpha, national honorary fraternity. He was president of the former fraternity during his senior year.

Dr. Conklin has not announced his plans for the future. Dr. Arthur D. Becker, member of the Kirksville faculty and president of the American Osteopathic Association, gave the main address at graduation exercises.

Dr. Conklin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conklin, south of Xenia. Mr. Conklin attended the commencement exercises and returned to this city Sunday.

Thursday evening there will be an invitation dance at the K. of P. hall. All who have received these cards are urged to attend as the committee has planned quite an unusually nice program of dance music.

Mrs. Waldo Spitz will be hostess to the Ladies Aid Society of the M. E. Church Thursday from 2 to 4.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Tritt have Mr. Tritt's mother, Mrs. W. A. Tritt of Urbana as a house guest this week.

Bath High won the debate on Friday night with their contestant, Sedalia. However on Saturday night they suffered defeat in a debate with Monroe, which was also held at the Bath High auditorium. There are several teachers from Bath High absent due to illness this week. Those registered out are Miss Brandt, Miss Willson, Miss Brevington and Miss Moorehead. Miss Farquhar is still convalescing from her recent illness.

School attendance is normal. The Ladies Missionary Society of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Lester Palmer Tuesday for a quilting and carpet rag sewing.

The Young Married Folks Class of the M. E. Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Funke, Pleasant St., for a social and business meeting Wednesday.

"Only Medicine That Ever Did Our Condition Any Good"

Read what this prominent Richmond (Indiana) couple have to say about the remarkable relief that MALVA brought to them. "We were troubled with kidney, liver, and bladder trouble, accompanied by constipation and other symptoms of a severely disordered stomach. Our systems were weak and run-down, and we had begun to feel the pains of rheumatism. We are mighty thankful today that we took MALVA, as it has brought us relief where all other medicines had failed."—Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Abbott, 413 West Seventh Street, Richmond, Ind.

THOMAS H. CONKLIN GIVEN OSTEOPATHY DEGREE ON FRIDAY

Thomas H. Conklin, Xenia, was one of a class of twenty-two students to receive the degree of Doctor of Osteopathy at impressive mid-year commencement exercises of the Kirksville College of Osteopathy at Kennedy Theater at Kirksville, Mo., Friday.

At the same time Dr. Conklin received the degree of Bachelor of Science. He formerly attended Miami University, Oxford, O., and the University of Lexington, Lexington, Ky. He entered the osteopathic college in January, 1928. During the past four years he has been active in the affairs of his college and is a member of Alpha Tau Sigma professional fraternity and of Psi Sigma Alpha, national honorary fraternity. He was president of the former fraternity during his senior year.

Dr. Conklin has not announced his plans for the future. Dr. Arthur D. Becker, member of the Kirksville faculty and president of the American Osteopathic Association, gave the main address at graduation exercises.

Dr. Conklin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Conklin, south of Xenia. Mr. Conklin attended the commencement exercises and returned to this city Sunday.

"LIVING ROOMS" IS TOPIC FOR DISCUSSION.

An interesting and instructive talk on "More Livable Living Rooms" was given by Miss Ruth Radford, home demonstration agent of Greene County, at a meeting at the home of Mrs. James Harner, Lower Bellbrook Pike, Monday afternoon. Miss Radford explained the arrangement of furniture and other details in planning a room to make it attractive. Her talk was enjoyed by the twenty-two women present.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Harner assisted by Mrs. Ward Grant and Mrs. Earl Soward. Women present at the meeting were Mrs. Walter Hess, Mrs. William Weiss, Mrs. Lillian Weiss, Mrs. Hattie Harner, Mrs. Eva Kyne, Mrs. Edith Scroggy, Mrs. J. W. Billmyre, Miss Zetta McClelland, Mrs. Isabel Van Eaton, Mrs. Ida Hollingshead, Miss Evelyn Anders, Mrs. M. E. Anders, Mrs. J. F. Gegen, Mrs. H. E. Fulkerson, Mrs. Ward Grant, Mrs. Emma E. Ketter, Mrs. Chester Mallow, Miss Olive Mallow, Mrs. Earl Soward, Mrs. Dean Moore and Mrs. Robert McClelland.

SUPERINTENDENT SPEAKS AT P.T.A. MEETING.

Supt. Louis Hammerle's interesting talk on current school topics was the main feature of a meeting of Spring Hill P.T.A. at the school Monday afternoon. Mr. Hammerle discussed the value of athletics in the grade schools from different standpoints, including sportsmanship, an incentive to further study, the growth of a patriotic school spirit and the moral and physical development of the child.

The superintendent also discussed school finances and said that the Xenia schools were going to do their utmost to maintain their present standard during the depression and that "lowering the standards of the school to effect economy was not efficiency."

Fourth grade pupils, under the direction of Miss Louise Herbert, presented an entertaining playlet, "St. Valentine's Home." Following a business session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS OCCASION FOR PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Michael, W. Main St., were pleasantly surprised by a group of relatives and friends at their home Saturday evening in honor of their thirty-second wedding anniversary which was Sunday. The evening was spent socially and later refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael's guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Billmyre and son, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Soward and son, Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Armentrout, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stull and son, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schuman and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ketter and three children, Mrs. Guy Toms, Mrs. Ella Ketter and Mrs. Emma Ketter.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS MEETING FRIDAY.

Mrs. J. S. Van Eaton, of Xenia, Elbert Anderson reviewed chapters from the study book, "God and the Census" when the Woman's Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church met at the Bible School room of the church Friday afternoon. The meeting was opened by a devotional period in charge of Mrs. Anna Reed.

Tributes to the memory of Miss Emily Holmes, Miss Ella Bickett and Miss Emma Hutchison were given by members of the society during the program.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Friends Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Floyd Anderson, 233 W. Market St., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Wilbur Shultz, 208 E. Second St., who underwent a serious operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, recently, was removed to the home of her sister, Mrs. Floyd Allen (Sabra Logan), 18 Lonsdale Ave., Oakwood, Dayton, Tuesday.

Mrs. Laura West, W. Church St., was the guest during the past week of Miss Lella Fudge, teacher in the schools at Ludlow, Ky. Mrs. West is spending this week with her cousin, Mrs. Wendell Willis, Wellston, O.

The condition of Mr. J. Milton Christy, Wilmington, formerly of Jamestown and well known in Greene County, who has been seriously ill, is slightly improved. He has been ill the past four weeks suffering from cellulitis and complications.

The Loyal Workers Bible Class of the First M. E. Church will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Walter Flomerfelt, 503 S. Detroit St., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Mulberry, Lyle Road, near Xenia, are announcing the birth of a son at their home Monday.

Nelson Scott, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott, Old Town, who was seriously injured when struck by an automobile near his home Monday morning and is a patient at McClelland Hospital, remains in about the same condition. He passed a "fairly good night" Monday it was reported. The youth received a fracture of both thigh bones, a fracture of the right wrist and painful cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Schuyler N. McClelland, S. Detroit St., is spending this week in Flushing, L. I., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Prince, formerly of this city.

Mr. Herbert C. Fisher, cashier of the Bowersville Bank, who was shot in the left leg by bandits in a hold-up of the bank Saturday morning, is still confined in McClelland Hospital. He continues to improve daily.

A striking example of Wrigley's practical humaneness was provided last winter when he donated the use of a large building to homeless unemployed. He took part in many other benevolences and was a leader in civic affairs.

At the age of 21, in 1882, Wrigley began his business career in his native city of Philadelphia.

Nine years later he came to Chicago. He founded the firm of William Wrigley, Jr., and for the manufacturers of chewing gum.

In 1911 the company had attained such strength that absorption of the Zeno Manufacturing Co. was possible. The name of the corporation was then changed to William Wrigley, Jr., Co.

Wrigley was a director in numerous local banks and other institutions. He was a member of the executive committee of the Chicago chapter, American Red Cross, and a member of the Loyal Legion.

He held memberships in the Chicago, Chicago Athletic, and the Glenview Golf Club in Chicago, and in the California, Los Angeles Athletic and several other clubs on the coast.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 26.—"I have lost the best boss I ever had."

That is what Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs said when informed of the death today of William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Chicago National League team. Hornsby was reached at his country home at Anglum, Missouri.

"I am terribly shocked at the news," Hornsby said. "I have worked for a lot of fine employers during my baseball career, but Mr. Wrigley was the prince of them all. 'We'll just have to win the National League flag and the world championship in 1932 now. It was Mr. Wrigley's greatest desire to have the Cubs win another pennant and go on to win a world championship this year.'"

LEAGUE COUNCIL WARNS CHINA AND JAPAN OF TROUBLE

relieved today by the appointment of General Chen Ming-shu as foreign minister of the Nanking Nationalist government, succeeding the resigned Eugene Chen.

While China massed 17,000 crack troops in the Shanghai area and held them in preparation for immediate action, which was by no means a remote possibility, the appointment of Chen Ming-shu was believed to have indirectly postponed fighting for awhile.

The new foreign minister favors a non-resistance campaign. He is commander of the nineteenth army, now garrisoned at Shanghai, which it was believed would obey his orders in event Japanese action precipitated a clash.

Martial law prevailed throughout Chinese territory, where a great tenseness gripped the people. Many circles predicted a clash although Chinese military maneuvers appeared to have checked any Japanese plans for an immediate invasion of the Chinese section of Shanghai or seizure of any of the Chinese forts.

Japanese Consul-General Mural awaited further orders from Tokyo regarding military action before carrying on further his negotiations with the Chinese mayor of Shanghai regarding his answer to Japan's demands for suppression of anti-Japanese activities.

MRS. MARY FRALICK

Mrs. Charles Gorham, S. Mechanic St., has been called to Cleveland by the death of her sister, Mrs. Mary Fralick, who died Monday afternoon. Mrs. Fralick had been an invalid three years and her death was due to a fractured hip she received when she fell two weeks ago.

ber to retain the company's charter. Hildebrecht is a teacher at the O. S. and S. O. Home.

In restoring the company however, Captain Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the Home, was re-commissioned captain and Lieutenant Swindler was re-commissioned second lieutenant. F. R. Woodruff, principal of Central High School, was given a commission as first lieutenant of the company. He is a reserve regular army officer.

Plans for the recruiting program were completed at a meeting of the American Legion at post hall, Court House, Monday night at which Dr. H. C. Messenger, chairman of the reorganization committee, presided. Colonel Rudolph, Captain Hays, Lieutenant Swindler and a number of Legion members spoke briefly, including an interesting story of his World War experiences by Ohmer Tate. Twenty prospective new members of the company, who have been certified by the eligibility committee, attended the meeting.

They were expected to complete their enlistment by signing their final papers Tuesday, and as fast as recruits are enrolled their names will be made public. The group at Monday's meeting enjoyed a smoker and refreshments served by the post mess sergeant.

Colonel Rudolph stressed the fact that the military training given his company will be the same as could be obtained at Culver, Virginia military institute or other military schools of high standing. The group in charge also plans to make enlistment interesting to the recruits by offering them many extra-military advantages such as social, club and athletic benefits which should make membership in the company appealing to young men of the type desired. The recruits are all investigated by an eligibility committee and all applications from outside this group must be certified by this committee before their enlistment is accepted. By this method it is hoped to raise the standards and morale of the company and make it a model unit of the regiment.

From the enlisted personnel the company will create its own officer material of the future and members are also eligible to take examinations admitting them to West Point. The regiment has sent one of its members to the military academy each year for the last ten years, enlisted men being eligible to take the examination after one year in service.

EVERY WOMAN faces this question

"How do I look to other people?" If you have a lovely skin, attractive eyes, and plenty of enthusiasm, you need not worry.

So many women, though, risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This cereal provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B which tones the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Special cooking processes make it finer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Surely this is safer than abusing the system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

At all grocers. In the red and green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Mothers Now Solve Problem of Colds With New Vick Plan

Of peculiar interest to mothers is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. The Plan is introduced with the new Vicks Nose and Throat Drops, based on a new idea for "preventing" colds—a companion to Vicks VapoRub, the family standby for "treating" colds. Used together as directed, you can have fewer and less severe colds in your family this winter—a reduction of your "Colds-Tax" in money, loss of time and health. —Adv.

XENIA AND GREENE COUNTY OBITUARY, FUNERAL NOTICES

JOSEPH U. ROWELL

As the result of complications following an accident in which he was injured three weeks ago, Joseph U. Rowell, 66, farmer residing on the Columbus Pike, near East Point School, died at a local hospital Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Rowell was walking across the trestle of the Pennsylvania Railroad on the Springfield branch just below the S. Detroit St. crossing three weeks ago at night and when he stepped out of the way of an approaching train he fell twenty feet into Shawnee Creek. He received a fracture of the right knee cap when he fell. Death resulted from an infection of the liver which it is thought was caused by Mr. Rowell lying in the water for thirty minutes before he was found or may have resulted from swallowing some of the creek water.

Mr. Rowell was born in Jeffersonville October 9, 1865 but had resided in Greene County ten years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Zook Rowell, to whom he was married forty-six years ago, and the following children: Mrs. Iva Snook, Mrs. Sarah Little, Springfield; Willard E. Rowell, Washington C. H.; and Mrs. Mary Womack, South Charleston. Two sisters, Mrs. Emma Jenkins and Mrs. Anna Collins, both of Dayton, also survive.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

J. S. HEEG

J. S. Heeg, 66, died at his home in Yellow Springs Monday night at 8 o'clock as the result of injuries he received when he fell from a load of fodder Monday morning. An investigation into the cause of his death was to be conducted by Coroner R. L. Haines, Jamestown, Tuesday.

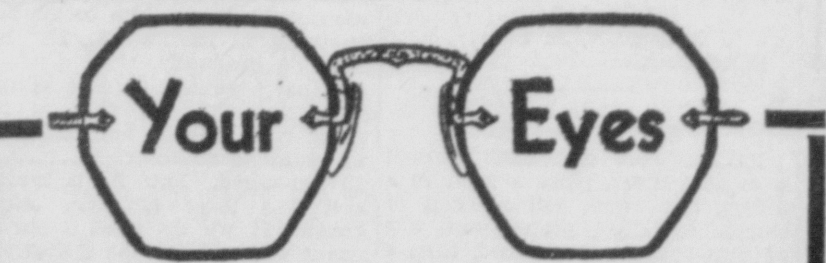

Mr. Heeg was born in Germany but came to the United States when a young man and settled at Yellow Springs. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Dora Heeg and the following children: Mrs. John Bitner, Mrs. Andrew Dannaker, Miss Mary Heeg, all of Yellow Springs; Lawrence and Harold Heeg, at home and Fred Heeg, South Vienna. A brother, John Heeg, Springfield, also survives. Mr. Heeg was a member of St. Paul's Catholic Church, Yellow Springs, where funeral services will be held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be made in St. Paul's Cemetery.

relieved today by the appointment of General Chen Ming-Shu as foreign minister of the Nanking Nationalist government, succeeding the resigned Eugene Chen.

While China massed 17,000 crack troops in the Shanghai area and held them in preparation for immediate action, which was by no means a remote possibility, the appointment of Chen Ming-Shu was believed to have indirectly postponed fighting for awhile.

The new foreign minister favors a non-resistance campaign. He is commander of the nineteenth army, now garrisoned at Shanghai, which it was believed would obey his orders in event Japanese action precipitated a clash.

Martial law prevailed throughout Chinese territory, where a great tenseness gripped the people. Many circles predicted a clash although Chinese military maneuvers appeared to have checked any Japanese plans for an immediate invasion of the Chinese section of Shanghai or seizure of any of the Chinese forts.

Japanese Consul-General Mural awaited further orders from Tokyo regarding military action before carrying on further his negotiations with the Chinese mayor of Shanghai regarding his answer to Japan's demands for suppression of anti-Japanese activities.

Mothers Now Solve Problem of Colds With New Vick Plan

Of peculiar interest to mothers is the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds" in the home. The Plan is introduced with the new Vicks Vapo-Rub, a new idea for "preventing" colds—companion to Vicks Vapo-Rub, the family standby for "treating" colds. Used together as directed, you can have fewer and less severe colds in your family this winter—a reduction of your "Cold-Tax" in money, loss of time and health.—Adv.

ber to retain the company's charter. Hildebrecht is a teacher at the O. S. and S. O. Home.

In restoring the company however, Captain Harold L. Hays, superintendent of the Home, was re-commissioned captain and Lieutenant Swindler was re-commissioned second lieutenant. F. R. Woodruff, principal of Central High School, was given a commission as first lieutenant of the company. He is a reserve regular army officer.

Plans for the recruiting program were completed at a meeting of the American Legion at post hall, Court House, Monday night at which Dr. H. C. Messenger, chairman of the reorganization committee, presided. Colonel Rudolph, Captain Hays, Lieutenant Swindler and a number of Legion members spoke briefly, including an interesting story of his World War experiences by Ohmer Tate. Twenty prospective new members of the company, who have been certified by the eligibility committee, attended the meeting.

They were expected to complete their enlistment by signing their final papers Tuesday, and as fast as recruits are enrolled their names will be made public. The group at Monday's meeting enjoyed a smoker and refreshments served by the post mess sergeant.

Colonel Rudolph stressed the fact that the military training given his company will be the same as could be obtained at Culver, Virginia military institute or other military schools of high standing. The group in charge also plans to make enlistment interesting to the

"How do I look to other people?" If you have a lovely skin, attractive eyes, and plenty of enthusiasm, you need not worry.

So many women, though, risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Yet constipation can be overcome by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. This cereal provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B which tones the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Special cooking processes make it finer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Surely this is safer than abusing the system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonsful daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

recruits by offering them many extra-military advantages such as social, club and athletic benefits which should make membership in the company appealing to young men of the type desired. The recruits are all investigated by an eligibility committee and all applications from outside this group must be certified by this committee before their enlistment is accepted. By this method it is hoped to raise the standards and morale of the company and make it a model unit of the regiment.

From the enlisted personnel the company will create its own officer material of the future and members are also eligible to take examinations admitting them to West Point. The regiment has sent one of its members to the military academy each year for the last ten years, enlisted men being eligible to take the examination after one year in service.

The recruiting officers are prepared to answer all questions of prospective recruits and invite applicants to discuss enlistment with them. The eligibility committee which passes on all recruits is composed of C. W. Murphy, chairman, the Rev. W. H. Tilford and V. G. Martin.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What profit hath he that worketh in that wherein he labourerth? — Ecclesiastes, iii, 9.

THE GODLY MAN

James Martineau has given the following as his definition of a godly man:

"If I see a man living out of an inner spring of inflexible right and pity;

If he refuses the color of the low world around him;

If his eye flashes with scorn at mean and impure things which are a jest to others;

If high examples of honor and self sacrifice bring the flush of sympathy upon his cheek;

If in his sphere of rule he plainly obeys a trust instead of enforcing an arbitrary will;

And in his service takes his yoke without a groan and does his work with thought only that it be good—

I shall not pry into his closet or ask about his creed, but own him at once as the godly man."

LEADING EXPONENT

Although not the inventor of "novelized biography" Lytton Strachey became its leading exponent. The author of "Queen Victoria" and "Elizabeth and Essex" has had many followers in the field of biography; but probably no equal in popularity. A whole school of biographers has grown up in the United States that copies his technique, without his scholarship. Strachey's art consisted in avoiding documentary facts in the lives of his characters, as far as possible, and "filling in" those lives out of his documented imagination, as he conceived them to have been lived. That form of writing has its dangers, as well as its merits.

A generation that will not take the time necessary to pore through voluminous standard "lives" of the great men and women of the past doubtless does pick up a few biographical crumbs from the "novelized" biographies that the printing presses of this country have been turning out in numbers in recent years; but the reflective reader puts down very few of these books without the unsatisfactory feeling that he does not know what is fact in it and what is fiction. The closer the writer of other men's lives keeps to documentary facts the safer his reputation for accuracy will be. That is more laborious than allowing one's imagination to have free play. Any writer with a little dramatic sense can visit the library and, taking a few high spots out of a standard biography that may have cost its author years of labor, jazz them up to meet the taste of a busy, and in many ways superficial age. Which is precisely the way in which many of the "best sellers" in the field of biography appear to have been constructed.

The "novelized biography" frequently is entertaining. One of its greatest defects results from superimposing the personality of the writer upon that of his characters, at the risk of permitting personal bias to distort the pictures he tries to paint. Some recent "lives" have gotten by on the plea that they "debunk" the personages they deal with. Others merely substitute one man's bunk for another's. Avoiding documentary facts, as Strachey boasted he did, very easily leads to the misplacing of emphasis and the presenting of characters as each biographer imagines them to have been and not necessarily as they were. The Strachey type of biography, while easy reading, always struck many people as having a preponderance of defects over merits. The majority of serious readers still prefer to take their fiction straight—and their biography undiluted.

Recognition of Russia Urged

By DR. JEROME DAVIS

Sociologist of Yale University

(Jerome Davis was born of American parents in Kyoto, Japan, Dec. 2, 1891. He is a graduate of Oberlin (O.) college, and has received numerous honorary degrees.)

He has been a teacher and professor at numerous schools and colleges throughout the United States. Davis has made intensive studies of Russia and Russians since 1916. He investigated conditions in the coal fields of West Virginia in 1923, and investigated conditions in Russia during the summer of 1926. He now is a professor at Yale university. Some of his publications are: "The Russians and Ruthenians in America," "The Russian Immigrant," "Christian Fellowship Among the Nations," "Business and the Church," and "Labor Speaks For Itself on Religion.")

I believe the United States should recognize the Soviet republic.

No matter what our attitude toward the Russian experiment, we have to recognize that, in the main, it is being undertaken by those who are sincere and who are anxious to work for the benefit of the peasants and laborers of Russia, who comprise 93 per cent of the people there. No single person can say with assurance that if he had been born or brought up in Russia he would not now be a member of the Communist party.

How should America react toward Soviet Russia? We can't use military force to overthrow it. We tried it without success. In Archangel our soldiers were sent hundreds of miles into the interior to kill Russian boys. By fighting without a declaration of war we succeeded simply in legalizing claims at international law against us.

We then promoted a blockade of Russia. To be sure, we did not officially join in a blockade; we simply said that no ship could clear from a United States port for Russia. The Russians were unable to make purchases abroad of medicine and seeds, and consequently many died. Now we have given up the blockade, and for ten years we have participated in a quarantine of the Russian Soviet government.

Nearly every other leading government of the world has found it wise to recognize the Soviet government, and in spite of all of the evils charged up against Russia these governments are not breaking off relations today. In fact, it is charged that many of these countries are deliberately trying to prevent the United States from recognizing Russia, in the hope that by this means we will get somewhat less of the profitable Russian trade.

The curious fact is that our non-recognition has stimulated the most radical elements in Communism and has enabled Russian leaders to keep alive a war psychology. Ignoring Russia means a continuance of the hate and fear psychology of war, the very spirit which still threatens the peace and safety of Europe; ignoring Russia means yet another setback to the recovery of all Europe.

Whether Communism succeeds or fails, it has values for the world. Its failure will teach us what to avoid; its success will demonstrate that a different economic system can endure.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK. — What few New Yorkers know:

That the big broadcasting studios don't encourage publicity on the wonders of their operation, because they are running on a capacity visitor basis now, with thousands on the waiting list—and to add to the confusion many big-name acts grow extremely fidgety and stage skittish when fans come in to peer at them before the mikes.

That beige and "postman blue," doped as the coming fashionable colors, caused as much excited talk at the recent garment retailers' convention here as the names of favorites at a Havana track.

That Korean women have no names until they bear sons, after which they are known as the "Mother of So-and-So."

That Chinese women consider it disgraceful to bear children after 40.

That both radio and the talkies are seeking new, untried trails now, and are more sympathetic to novelty in theme and treatment than ever before—radio execs, for example, being frantically anxious to discover something else for a performer to do besides talk, sing or play an instrument.

That an increasing number of congressmen and senators are having electrical transcriptions made of their speeches from the floor and sending the records back home for radio broadcasts.

That when you hear "Univisssanturjurriguelaki!" near the Arctic Circle, you will know an Eskimo is saying "I love you!"

That a group of prominent debutantes and the society writer of a big daily here are organizing a campaign against the "collegiate" dance grip—in which the lady assumes, roughly, the posture of a football center.

That one Hollywood sound studio uses thick carpet on many sets which photographs exactly like a hardwood floor.

That Jack White, master of ceremonies at the Ballyhoo restaurant floor show here, ad libs so expertly and impressively that the waiters and girls of the show cackle as spontaneously and loudly as do patrons.

That the word "murder" appears more often in the titles of books than any other in the language.

That the stately ecclesiastical atmosphere of the Roxy stage show was abandoned recently for a Poly-nesian setting overtaken with languorous music and wiggles—and that the management is still getting letters pro and con, due in no small measure to the public interest already focused on tropic beaches through trouble in Hawaii.

That Greta Garbo's first name will be dropped from lights and posters for her next release, making her the only star in pictures billed with only one tag.

That most of the jewels which belonged to Queen Isabella of Spain now repose in the safes and on the persons of New York society folk.

DREAMY TYPE OF CHILD IS UNIVERSAL PROBLEM FOR PARENTS — DR. MYERS

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western
Reserve University

In almost any group of parents during an open forum the question comes, "How may I teach my boy of 12 to concentrate?" or "My girl of 10 is such a dreamer. What may I do to teach her to pay strict attention to her lessons?" I have heard it in Seattle, in Philadelphia, Oklahoma City. In about half the states I have listened to this kind of question and have read it in letters, I think, from every state.

The question gives me a feeling almost of despair because I feel so nearly helpless in attempting an answer. The question is so general and so vague. No one can answer it with finality. In the first place, concentration, or the lack of it, is tied up with a whole lifetime of habits. It is not a specific something we can get at, such as swearing or playing with matches or failing to say "thank you." It consists of countless attitudes and habits. We don't teach concentration as we teach the spelling of biscuit or the learning by heart of the "Psalms of Life," or naming the leading cities of Manchuria.

Your child or mine grows in ability to concentrate as he succeeds in paying strict attention to one specific activity, then another, then another, and so on. Each victory will help him some other to win.

Whether we as parents or as teachers wish to train the child to concentrate, our task is about as follows: Turn him to things to learn or do that he can do well, but which will challenge his efforts. Do all possible to control the situation so that he will succeed and get satisfaction from success. If he can be led to spell accurately two words of his spelling lesson he might find no difficulty to work vigorously at the other four or eight. If he finds he can read the book he borrowed from the library and get meaning from it with satisfaction, he has a motive to go on reading. But if it proves too hard for him he is likely to dream as he reads and soon to close the book and abandon it entirely.

What we parents and teachers are most likely to do is to scold the dreamy, inattentive child or to exhort him on the virtues of concentration. We would help him more by reciting verbatim some of Einstein's writings on relativity or by challenging him to play a game of checkers. By the latter we might do a great deal in the teaching of concentration. If he played well he would at least cultivate concentration habits at the game.

Then the thing to do is to find out what the child can do well at home or school and to lead him to do tasks no harder. He must succeed in order to find satisfaction. As he enjoys success he is stimulated to attend more closely and to work more vigorously, and win more success. We cultivate concentration in the child as we help

Everything's NOT for the Best
Once I Thought It Was Not Now

Once upon a time when I heard people say, "Everything is for the best," I used think to myself that maybe they were right, maybe they knew more about life than I did.

That, perhaps, in some obscure way, in some fashion hidden from me, everything WAS for the best in this world.

But I don't believe it any more.

If I know anything, if I've learned anything at all from living, it's that everything is NOT for the best.

If you just sit and let things happen to you, how can everything that comes along be for the best? You sit by a river and watch the things that float by in the stream, and you see pretty ripples—you see graceful fish—you see lovely waterfowl—you see green leaves—but you see ugly things, too—you see dead things, you see rotten things. They all float past in the stream and they're not all for the best.

Well, life is a stream, too, and everything that's in it is far from being for the best.

It's nonsense, it's stupidity, it's pretty close to cowardice to believe that sort of thing.

Because if we believe that belief pulls down the best to a very low level indeed and turns life into swamps and lowlands.

If everything is for the best—Then painful disease—and starvation and dying children—and ghastly war—and loneliness—and broken hearts—and bitter envy—and mad superstition—and sneaking thievery—and vain pomposity—and agonizing jealousy—and cringing miserliness—are all GOOD.

And this I cannot believe. Nor do I believe that any man in the secret places of his heart really does believe that any of these things are for the best.

I know that a man, if he strengthens his own soul, must travel through the dark places. I believe that a woman must suffer. I am sure that a child must be tested.

But we do not grow stronger unless we keep our heads clear, unless we know which is good and which is bad in our lives. Unless we can tighten our lips and say to ourselves, "This is bad, but I must get through it! This is awful, but I must not weaken!"

That's the only recipe I know for making the best of life—and we must MAKE the BEST or we shall never enjoy it.

Because if we believe that

How To Make a Cold Cream

By GLADYS GLAD

As I told you in yesterday's column, I'm not keen about the home manufacture of beauty creams. There are so many really good creams on the market today that there's no necessity for it. And what's more, I don't think that a homemade cream can ever quite come up to a good, marketed preparation. For the average amateur does not have the specialized machinery and equipment to purify and perfect a cream as modern manufacturers do. The average individual should find more satisfaction in experimenting with marketed creams to find the one that is best suited to her skin and to her means, than in experimenting with creams of her own making.

However, yesterday, for the benefit of the woman who persists in mixing their own beautifying preparations, I outlined the procedure for making a good cleansing cream at home. Today I shall give you the formula for an equally effective nourishing cream.

To prepare this nourishing cream, place half an ounce of spermaceti in a double boiler and add to it one ounce of lanolin, melted. Mix the ingredients together at moderate heat. When thoroughly melted and blended, add to the mixture one ounce of cocoa butter and one ounce of sweet almond oil, and beat the entire concoction briskly with a wooden paddle.

After the ingredients are all thoroughly mixed together, remove the double boiler from the heat of the fire and continue to beat the mixture until it is cool.

This cream, if properly prepared is excellent for lubricating a dry, chapped skin, as the ingredients that it contains are soothing and healing emollients. The cream may be applied several times a week, or, if the dryness is very severe, nightly before retiring. Of course, it should be applied only after the skin has been thoroughly cleansed.

Inhalation Instructions For a Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Many of the effective remedies for colds can be administered much more effectively than they usually are.

There are some little points in arrangement or technique which make all the difference in the remedy in the effectiveness of the remedy, and especially in the comfort which the patient experiences in taking the remedy. For it is a good rule in the practice of medicine that if a treatment is more irksome than the disease the patient will not continue it.

On that basis let us discuss steam or medicated inhalations. There is no question of their value in relieving the tightness of the chest, and of "loosening" the cold, starting secretions and giving a general soothing effect.

Yet, it is probable that when a steam inhalation is thought of, the first reaction of the household doctor is that it is too much trouble; that you have to send to the drug store for this and that, for a lamp and little kettle, etc. You do not have to do any such thing. The best one can be fixed at home in five minutes.

And as for drugs, the steam itself is often quite as grateful as the drugs.

One way is to boil water in a pan, throw a teaspoonful of the aromatic drug on the water, and have the patient place the face over the surface of the water, covering the head and the pan with a towel. This, however, results in irritation to the skin and the eyes from the fumes of the drug.

A croup kettle with a paper cone introducing the fumes close to the patient's nose and mouth is frequently employed. It works for children, but suffers from the same objection as the first method.

The most elegant method, and really the simplest, is that suggested by a well-known physician of Boston. An enamel pitcher is used to boil the water in, the aromatic drug is thrown on the surface of the water as in other methods, then the top of the pitcher is covered with a towel and a large rubber tube is thrust under the towel. The patient takes the other end of the tube in the mouth and breathes in the fumes. This saves any irritation of the skin.

The solution is kept hot longer by leaving the towel over the opening in the pitcher. The tube should be of rubber instead of glass, because the rubber does not get hot enough to burn the lips; it should be of large caliber. Since electric heaters have become so common in households the pitcher can be set on one of these and the water kept steaming indefinitely.

Medicines used for inhalation are: Compound tincture of benzoin, oil of turpentine, oil of eucalyptus, oil of pine needles, menthol and camphor.

A combination of these oils made up as follows is excellent: Menthol, camphor—each four drachms (these rubbed together in a mortar will form a liquid.) Add oil of pine needles, oil of turpentine, oil of eucalyptus—each one ounce.

Applications of aromatic limitations to the chest, such as liniment ammoniac (U. S. X.) or Hartshorn's Liniment, act in the same way as an inhalant, the fumes rising and being breathed in by the patient.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
A reader asks: "What is dementia precox caused from? What are the symptoms and how treated?"

Answer: Dementia precox is an acquired emotional derangement occurring in people about the age of adolescence. It is not generally considered to be necessarily a hereditary type of mental trouble. The symptoms are of various kind.

One type consists in indifference to external surroundings and events, and advice from parents or teachers. Another is characterized by extreme emotional storms, alternating with periods of depression. The treatment is almost entirely by psychological methods and in many cases the outlook is the most favorable of any class of true insanity.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

What profit hath he that worketh in that wherein he laboreth? — Ecclesiastes, iii, 9.

THE GODLY MAN

James Martineau has given the following as his definition of a godly man:

"If I see a man living out of an inner spring of inflexible right and pity:

If he refuses the color of the low world around him;
If his eye flashes with scorn at mean and impure things which are a jest to others;

If high examples of honor and self sacrifice bring the flush of sympathy upon his cheek;

If in his sphere of rule he plainly obeys a trust instead of enforcing an arbitrary will;

And in his service takes his yoke without a groan and does his work with thought only that it be good—

I shall not pry into his closet or ask about his creed, but own him at once as the godly man."

LEADING EXPONENT

Although not the inventor of "novelized biography" Lytton Strachey became its leading exponent. The author of "Queen Victoria" and "Elizabeth and Essex" has had many followers in the field of biography; but probably no equal in popularity. A whole school of biographers has grown up in the United States that copies his technique, without his scholarship. Strachey's art consisted in avoiding documentary facts in the lives of his characters, as far as possible, and "filling in" those lives out of his documented imagination, as he conceived them to have been lived. That form of writing has its dangers, as well as its merits.

A generation that will not take the time necessary to pore through voluminous standard "lives" of the great men and women of the past doubtless does pick up a few biographical crumbs from the "novelized" biographies that the printing presses of this country have been turning out in numbers in recent years; but the reflective reader puts down very few of these books without the unsatisfactory feeling that he does not know what is fact in it and what is fiction. The closer the writer of other men's lives keeps to documentary facts the safer his reputation for accuracy will be. That is more laborious than allowing one's imagination to have free play. Any writer with a little dramatic sense can visit the library and, taking a few high spots out of a standard biography that may have cost its author years of labor, jazz them up to meet the taste of a busy, and in many ways superficial age. Which is precisely the way in which many of the "best sellers" in the field of biography appear to have been constructed.

The "novelized biography" frequently is entertaining. One of its greatest defects results from superimposing the personality of the writer upon that of his characters, at the risk of permitting personal bias to distort the pictures he tries to paint. Some recent "lives" have gotten by on the plea that they "debunk" the personages they deal with. Others merely substitute one man's bunk for another's. Avoiding documentary facts, as Strachey boasted he did, very easily leads to the misplacing of emphasis and the presenting of characters as each biographer imagines them to have been and not necessarily as they were. The Strachey type of biography, while easy reading, always struck many people as having a preponderance of defects over merits. The majority of serious readers still prefer to take their fiction straight—and their biography undiluted.

Recognition of Russia Urged

By DR. JEROME DAVIS
Sociologist of Yale University
Jerome Davis was born of American parents in Kyoto, Japan, Dec. 2, 1891. He is a graduate of Oberlin (O.) college, and has received numerous honorary degrees. He has been a teacher and professor at numerous schools and colleges throughout the United States. Davis has made intensive studies of Russia and Russians since 1916. He investigated conditions in the coal fields of West Virginia in 1923, and investigated conditions in Russia during the summer of 1926. He now is a professor at Yale university. Some of his publications are: "The Russians and Ruthenians in America," "The Russian Immigrant," "Christian Fellowship Among the Nations," "Business and the Church" and "Labor Speaks For Itself on Religion."

I believe the United States should recognize the Soviet republic. No matter what our attitude toward the Russian experiment, we have to recognize that, in the main, it is being undertaken by those who are sincere and who are anxious to work for the benefit of the peasants and laborers of Russia, who comprise 93 per cent of the people there. No single person can say with assurance that if he had been born or brought up in Russia he would not now be a member of the Communist party.

How should America react toward Soviet Russia? We can't use military force to overthrow it. We tried it without success. In Archangel our soldiers were sent hundreds of miles into the interior to kill Russian boys. By fighting without a declaration of war we succeeded simply in legalizing claims at international law against us.

We then promoted a blockade of Russia. To be sure, we did not officially join in a blockade; we simply said that no ship could clear from a United States port for Russia. The Russians were unable to make purchases abroad of medicine and seeds, and consequently many died. Now we have given up the blockade, and for ten years we have participated in a quarantine of the Russian Soviet government.

Nearly every other leading government of the world has found it wise to recognize the Soviet government, and in spite of all of the evils charged up against Russia these governments are not breaking off relations today. In fact, it is charged that many of these countries are deliberately trying to prevent the United States from recognizing Russia, in the hope that by this means we will get somewhat less of the profitable Russian trade.

The curious fact is that our non-recognition has stimulated the most radical elements in Communism and has enabled Russian leaders to keep alive a war psychology. Ignoring Russia means a continuance of the hate and fear psychology of war, the very spirit which still threatens the peace and safety of Europe; ignoring Russia means yet another setback to the recovery of all Europe.

Whether Communism succeeds or fails, it has values for the world. Its failure will teach us what to avoid; its success will demonstrate that a different economic system can endure.

MY NEW YORK

NEW YORK. — What few New Yorkers know:

That the big broadcasting studios don't encourage publicity on the wonders of their operation, because they are running on a capacity visitor basis now, with thousands on the waiting list—and to add to the confusion many big-name acts grow extremely fidgety and stage skitish when fans come in to peer at them before the mikes.

That beige and "postman blue," doped as the coming fashionable colors, caused as much excited talk at the recent garment retailers' convention here as the names of favorites at a Havana track.

That Korean women have no names until they bear sons, after which they are known as the "Mother of So-and-So."

That Chinese women consider it disgraceful to bear children after 40.

That both radio and the talkies are seeking new, untried trails now, and are more sympathetic to novelities in theme and treatment than ever before—radio execs, for example, being frantically anxious to discover something else for a performer to do besides talk, sing or play an instrument.

That an increasing number of congressmen and senators are having electrical transcriptions made of their speeches from the floor and sending the records back home for radio broadcasts.

That when you hear "Univisag-entuljurrigueljak!" near the Arctic Circle, you will know an Eskimo is saying "I love you!"

That a group of prominent debutantes and the society writer of a big daily here are organizing a campaign against the "collegiate" dance grip—in which the lady assumes, roughly, the posture of a football center.

That one Hollywood sound studio uses thick carpet on many sets which photographs exactly like a hardwood floor.

That Jack White, master of ceremonies at the Ballyhoo restaurant floor show here, ad libs so expertly and impressively that the waiters and girls of the show cackle as spontaneously and loudly as do patrons.

That the word "murder" appears more often in the titles of books than any other in the language.

That the stately ecclesiastical atmosphere of the Roxy stage show was abandoned recently for a Polynesian setting overtaken with languorous music and wiggles—and that the management is still getting letters pro and con, due in no small measure to the public interest already focused on tropic beaches through trouble in Hawaii.

That Greta Garbo's first name will be dropped from lights and posters for her next release, making her the only star in pictures billed with only one tag.

That most of the jewels which belonged to Queen Isabella of Spain now repose in the safes and on the persons of New York society folk.

DREAMY TYPE OF CHILD IS UNIVERSAL PROBLEM FOR PARENTS — DR. MYERS

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western
Reserve University

In almost any group of parents during an open forum the question comes, "How may I teach my boy of 12 to concentrate?" or "My girl of 10 is such a dreamer. What may I do to teach her to pay strict attention to her lessons?" I have heard it in Seattle, in Philadelphia, Oklahoma City. In about half the states I have listened to this kind of question and have read it in letters, I think, from every state.

The question gives me a feeling almost of despair because I feel so nearly helpless in attempting an answer. The question is so general and so vague. No one can answer it with finality. In the first place, concentration, or the lack of it, is tied up with a whole lifetime of habits. It is not a specific something we can get at, such as swearing or playing with matches or failing to say "thank you." It consists of countless attitudes and habits. We don't teach concentration as we teach the spelling of bliscuit or the learning by heart of the "Psalm of Life," or naming the leading cities of Manchuria.

Your child or mine grows in ability to concentrate as he succeeds in paying strict attention to one specific activity, then another, then another, and so on. Each victory will help him some other to win.

Whether we as parents or as teachers wish to train the child to concentrate, our task is about as follows: Turn him to things to learn or do that he can do well, but which will challenge his efforts. Do all possible to control the situation so that he will succeed and get satisfaction from success. If he can be led to spell accurately two words of his spelling lesson he might find no difficulty to work vigorously at the other four or eight. If he finds he can read the book he borrowed from the library and get meaning from it with satisfaction, he has a motive to go on reading. But if it proves too hard for him he is likely to dream as he reads and soon to close the book and abandon it entirely.

What we parents and teachers are most likely to do is to avoid the dreamy, inattentive child or to exhort him on the virtues of concentration. We would help him more by reciting verbatim some of Einstein's writings on relativity or by challenging him to play a game of checkers. By the latter we might do a great deal in the teaching of concentration. If he played well he would at least cultivate concentration habits at the game.

Then the thing to do is to find out what the child can do well at home or school and to lead him to do tasks no harder. He must succeed in order to find satisfaction. As he enjoys success he is stimulated to attend more closely and to work more vigorously and win more success. We cultivate concentration in the child as we help

Everything's NOT for the Best
One I Thought It Was Not Now

Once upon a time when I heard people say, "Everything is for the best," I used to think to myself that maybe they were right, maybe they knew more about life than I did. That, perhaps, in some obscure way, in some fashion hidden from me, everything WAS for the best in this world.

But I don't believe it any more. If I know anything, if I've learned anything at all from living, it's that everything is NOT for the best.

If you just sit and let things happen to you, how can everything that comes along be for the best? You sit by a river and watch the things that float by in the stream, and you see pretty ripples—you see graceful fish—you see lovely waterfowl—you see green leaves—but you see ugly things, too—you see dead things—you see rotten things. They all flow past in the stream and they're not all for the best. Well, life is a stream, too, and everything that is in it is far from being for the best.

It's nonsense, it's stupidity, it's pretty close to cowardice to believe that sort of thing.

Because if we believe that EVERYTHING is for the best, that belief pulls down the best to a very low level indeed and turns life into swamps and lowlands.

If everything is for the best—Then painful disease and starvation and dying children—and ghastly war—and loneliness—and broken hearts—and bitter envy—and mad superstition—and sneaking thievery—and vain pomposity—and agonizing jealousy—and cringing miserliness—are all GOOD.

And this I cannot believe. Nor do I believe that any man in the secret places of his heart really does believe that any of these things are for the best.

I know that a man, if he strengthens his own soul, must travel through the dark places. I believe that a woman must suffer. I am sure that a child must be tested.

But we do not grow stronger unless we keep our heads clear, unless we know which is good and which is bad in our lives. Unless we can tighten our lips and say to ourselves, "This is bad, but I must get through it! This is awful, but I must not weaken!"

That's the only recipe I know for making the best of life—and we must MAKE the BEST or we shall never enjoy it.

Budgets For The Entire Family

By MRS. MARY MORTON

It is possible that in these talks on budgeting it is not yet clear to some under what heads to list the various expenditures. Suppose we devote a day or so to listing these things under the proper heads.

FOOD: All foods purchased; meals out.

HOUSING: Rent; taxes on house and lot; fire insurance on house; repairs and improvements on house and grounds; interest on mortgage on house and lot.

OPERATING: Fuel; light and power; telephone; water; ice; household supplies. These latter include such things as string, paper, tacks, laundry starch, bluing, soap, cleaning powders etc. Paid service in the house and garden where the latter is not a part of the general farm business. Laundry done out; fire insurance on furniture and equipment; rent of safety deposit box; stationery; postage, telegrams, expressage, freight and drayage for household goods. Business and to and in connection with family and household work, but not for vacations or pleasure trips. Interest on borrowed money for general family expenditures. Interest on money borrowed for a particular purpose, as, for example, education, should be entered under the special heading.

FURNISHINGS AND EQUIPMENT: This includes all furniture, floor coverings, curtains, shades and hangings, bedding, linen, tableware, pictures and ornaments, cut flowers and potted plants for house; all equipment such as musical instruments, washing machines, sewing machines, refrigerators, stoves, brooms, sweepers, mops and canning appliances and all utensils and appliances for kitchen and laundry and replacement and repairs of same. The cost of storage of household furnishings and equipment should be included here.

Potato Crust Pie
Put left-over cold beef through a meat grinder, place a layer in a baking dish, next add one cup of canned tomatoes, pepper, salt, bits of butter, one onion sliced, then a thick layer of mashed potatoes, seasoned as for the table, place bits of butter over the top, bake in slow oven three-quarters of an hour.

Using Up Frosting
If you make too much frosting for the cake, spread what is left over Graham or soda crackers, then put the crackers into the oven for a few moments to brown. These are especially appreciated by the children.

Burnt Sugar
To make burnt sugar, put half a cup of sugar into an iron skillet, and let it burn until it liquefies. Have ready half a cup of boiling water. Remove skillet from stove and add water, mixing well. This will keep and is used to flavor cakes, gravies, sauces, etc.

Don't Crowd
Don't overcrowd your home with furniture. Leave some empty spaces. It will look better and be more comfortable.

How To Make a Cold Cream

By GLADYS GLAD

As I told you in yesterday's column, I'm not keen about the home manufacture of beauty creams. There are so many really good creams on the market today that there's no necessity for it. And what's more, I don't think that a homemade cream can ever quite come up to a good, marketed preparation. For the average amateur does not have the specialized machinery and equipment to purify and perfect a cream as modern manufacturers do. The average individual should find more satisfaction in experimenting with marketed creams to find the one that is best suited to her skin and to her means, than in experimenting with creams of her own making.

However, yesterday, for the benefit of those women who persist in mixing their own beautifying preparations, I outlined the procedure for making a good cleansing cream at home. Today I shall give you the formula for an equally effective nourishing cream.

To prepare this nourishing cream, place half an ounce of spermaceti in a double boiler and add to it one ounce of lanolin, melting the ingredients together at moderate heat. When thoroughly melted and blended, add to the mixture one ounce of cocoa butter and one ounce of sweet almond oil, and beat the entire concoction briskly with a wooden paddle. After the ingredients are all thoroughly mixed together, remove the double boiler from the heat of the fire and continue to beat the mixture until it is cool.

This cream, if properly prepared, is excellent for lubricating a dry, chapped skin, as the ingredients that it contains are soothing and healing emollients. The cream may be applied several times a week, or, if the dryness is very severe, nightly before retiring. Of course, it should be applied only after the skin has been thoroughly cleansed.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Lost Letter
Disappointed: Your letter was apparently lost in the mail, as I never received it. Write again, and I'll be only too happy to assist you to the best of my ability.

Astringent
Mary: Equal parts of glycerine, rosewater and witch hazel form an excellent astringent. If the lotion proves too drying, the amount of witch hazel used should be reduced.

Coffeurs
Betty: Bobbed hair, which was never really passed, is once again regaining favor. But it's my opinion that a becoming coiffure, regardless of its length, is always fashionable.

Editor's Note: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ten cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her article on "Care of the Hands and Nails" and "Care of the Feet and Legs," two cents in coin for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

Inhalation Instructions For a Cold

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Many of the effective remedies for colds can be administered much more effectively than they usually are.

There are some little points in arrangement or technique which make all the difference in the world in the effectiveness of the remedy, and especially in the comfort which the patient experiences in taking the remedy. For it is a good rule in the practice of medicine that if a treatment is more irksome than the disease the patient will not continue it.

On that basis let us discuss steam or medicated inhalations. There is no question of their value in relieving the tightness of the chest, and of "loosening" the cold, starting secretions and giving a general soothing effect.

Yet, it is probable that when a steam inhalation is thought of, the first reaction of the household doctor is that it is too much trouble; that you have to send to the drug store for this and that, for a lamp and little kettle, etc. You do not have to do any such thing. The device can be fixed at home in five minutes.

And as for drugs, the steam itself is often quite as grateful as the drugs.

One way is to boil water in a pan, throw a teaspoonful of the aromatic drug on the water, and have the patient place the face over the surface of the water, covering the head and the pan with a towel. This, however, results in irritation to the skin and the eyes from the fumes of the drug.

A group kettle with a paper cone introducing the fumes close to the patient's nose and mouth is frequently employed. It works for children, but suffers from the same objection as the first method.

The most elegant method, and really the simplest, is that suggested by a well-known physician of Boston. An enamel pitcher is used to boil the water in, the aromatic drug is thrown on the surface of the water as in other methods, then the top of the pitcher is covered with a towel and a large rubber tube is thrust under the towel. The patient takes the other end of the tube in the mouth and breathes in the fumes. This saves any irritation of the skin.

The solution is kept hot longer by leaving the towel over the opening in the pitcher. The tube should be of rubber instead of glass, because the rubber does not get too hot enough to burn the lips; it should be of large caliber. Since electric heaters have become common in households the pitcher can be set on one of these and the water kept steaming indefinitely.

Medicines used for inhalation are: Compound tincture of benzoin, oil of turpentine, oil of eucalyptus, oil of pine needles, menthol and camphor.

A combination of these oils made up as follows is excellent: Menthol, camphor—each four drachms (these rubbed together in a mortar will form a liquid.) Add oil of pine needles, oil of turpentine, oil of eucalyptus—each one ounce.

Applications of aromatic liniments to the chest, such as linimentum ammoniac (U. S. X.) or Hartshorn's liniment, act in the same way as an inhalant, the fumes rising and being breathed in by the patient.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
A reader asks: "What is dementia precox caused from? What are the symptoms and how treated?"

Answer: Dementia precox is an acquired emotional derangement occurring in people about the age of adolescence. It is not generally considered to be necessary a hereditary type of mental trouble. The symptoms are of various kinds. One type consists in indifference to external surroundings and events, and advice from parents or teachers. Another type is characterized by extreme emotional storms, alternating with periods of depression. The treatment is almost entirely by psychological methods and in many cases the outlook is the most favorable of any class of true insanity.

"Clean, Pure Love"

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MISS LEE: I wonder whether you can give me any advice—that is, if you are able to really understand my case. I am a married woman and have been working in an office with a married man for five years. Of course there are others in the office."

"From the time he first saw me he has been in love with me, doing everything in his power to make me love him, and has finally succeeded. I love him better than anything in the world. It has come so gradually."

"What I want to be able to make you understand is that it is a clean, pure love on both sides, and we want to do the right thing for all concerned. Now he is married and has three children, almost grown. If we do what is our duty, it will certainly be selfish. On the other hand, if we stay as we are we will never amount to anything—mentally or physically."

"WORRIED LETTY."

Too bad you finally fell in love with this married man. Proves that patience and perseverance will win, even when it's in a bad cause. Seems to me that he would have shown much more sense and judgment to have devoted the five years to making love to his wife, and cultivating the friendship of his children, as long as neither of you were free.

Of course you will say I don't "understand," but that is the standard plea in affairs of this kind. Doubtless your friend's wife doesn't "understand" him, and your husband doesn't "understand" you, but you and he "understand" one another perfectly.

Well, my dear, the only RIGHT thing to do, of course, as you very well know, is to give this man up and go to work somewhere else, if possible, and try to be true to your husband. I don't see how you can be happy if you do as you desire to, which means, I suppose, run away together. If you do that I'd like to bet you that you'd be disillusioned about this thing you think is a "clean, pure love."

There are too many other persons involved in this thing to do what you think will make you happy. You can't ignore them. Maybe his wife loves him and thinks he is true to her and she and the children will be heartbroken and humiliated if he should leave them. And it's possible your husband loves you and depends on you. You say you will "never amount to anything—mentally or physically"—if you go as you are. But emotions have been controlled before, my dear, even as powerful as your own, and may be again. I'd advise separation from this man and an attempt to see things clearly. Constant association with him in this emotional state you both are now in, clouds the issue.

UNHAPPY TILLIE: I am afraid, hard as it will be, you had better tell the boy friend about these affairs. It's really only fair to him. Seems to me that he would have shown much more sense and judgment to have devoted the five years to making love to his wife, and cultivating the friendship of his children, as long as neither of you were free.

A MOTHER: It is certainly an inspiration to get a letter like yours. Congratulations

Sidney High School's hopes of winning the Miami Valley League basketball title have depreciated considerably.

The Yellow Jackets, who have beaten Xenia and Troy and are undefeated in league competition, must struggle along in their remaining four league contests with Miamisburg, Fairview, Greenville and Piqua, without the valuable services of Bobby Clark, high scoring guard.

The eight-semester rule has made Clark ineligible for further basketball competition this season. The Sidney star played his last scholastic game against Troy last Friday night, and he had the satisfaction of being personally responsible for Sidney's one-point triumph.

In his farewell appearance, Clark scored fourteen of Sidney's twenty-one points.

The eight-semester playing rule has also just about wrecked Springfield High's basketball team, which Xenia Central plays later this season.

Two of the most brilliant Wildcat stars played their last game against Dayton Roosevelt Saturday night. Mid-year graduation will reach into the ranks of the Springfield cage squad and pluck therefrom Milton Bernstein, flashy forward, and Harry Farnand, stellar guard, both of whom are regulars. One of these two players is expected to weaken the team during the balance of the season.

Undefeated this season, North High of Columbus is this department's selection to win the state basketball title this year.

North Cagers beat Portsmouth, 1931 state champions, by seven or eight points on the defending champions' own floor the other night. Columbus West, conqueror of Xenia Central, lost to North by a margin greater than forty points some weeks ago.

Ping-pong, which has become a favorite indoor sport here, is also staging a comeback in popularity elsewhere. For example, at Cleveland the first annual city ping-pong tourney is soon to be held, and if entries can be judged as an accurate estimation, the sport is experiencing a great revival of interest there. The tourney is scheduled for January 27-30 with the winner going to Chicago to compete for the national championship.

Protests in behalf of women fans of the game have been entered vigorously by one Cleveland feminine devotee who has succeeded in obtaining a promise for the Cleveland chapter of the American Ping-Pong Association of a woman's meet later on in the season.

XENIA GRANGE WINS FROM B. B. F. TEAM

A basket by R. Fudge, forward, from side court in the last thirty seconds of play broke a 14 to 14 deadlock and enabled the Xenia Grange basketball team to defeat the B. B. F. quintet, 16 to 14, thereby registering its first victory of the season at Central High gymnasium Saturday night. The B. B. F. team was leading at the intermission, 9 to 6. R. Fudge tallied eight points for the Grange cagers, while C. Ferguson and B. Bickett were high scorers for the losers.

Cedarville Girls In Lead;
Ross Meets
Cedarville

With each quintet battling for its first victory in Greene County competition this season, the one-point, last second triumph registered by Jamestown High over Beavercreek cagers Saturday night provided the most exciting basketball contest of all in the renewal of county competition last week.

Jamestown entered the game with a record of six straight defeats, while Beaver had lost seven games in a row. Therefore, a dog fight was to be expected, and fans were not disappointed. Beaver had the game in its grasp until the last two seconds of play when Tom Staley's basket from long range put Jamestown out in front by a lone point.

Ross Twp.'s champion team extended its victory string to seven games by scoring a 32 to 20 win over Jefferson Twp., but Bellbrook met a defeat it probably did not expect when it lost to Bryan High of Yellow Springs, 25 to 21. Bryan's quintet, incidentally, is also unbeaten in the county race, having won three consecutive games.

Cedarville girls, unbeaten in the feminine county division, played another game with a team from outside the county, losing to London, 21 to 14. Ross girls, who have lost only once, registered their sixth victory, beating Jefferson, 21 to 9. Bellbrook girls won over Bryan High girls, 24 to 10, while Beaver girls outscored Jamestown, 20 to 15.

The outstanding county game on the program this week is the one providing a meeting between Ross and Cedarville on the latter's floor Thursday night. The game between the girls' teams of the two schools also will have an important bearing on the leadership of the feminine race.

Bryan High boys will put their unblemished record to a major test, playing two games, the first at Springfield Friday night and the second with Jefferson Twp. cagers at Yellow Springs Saturday night. Ross also has a game at South Solon Saturday night.

Jamestown is tentatively scheduled to play a school alumni team Friday night. County standing:

MIAMISBURG GUARD LEADING SCORER IN VALLEY LEAGUE NOW

Kelly Tops Campbell As Dalton Drops To Third Place

Fifteen points tallied by Kelly, Miamisburg guard, against Xenia Central last week elevated the Burger star from powhere in the individual point-getters in the Miami Valley League basketball chase.

Kelly's point total for the three games he has played now stands at twenty-six, one point ahead of John Campbell, all-league Troy guard, who scored eleven more points against Sidney and increased his own total to twenty-five. Whereas the Miamisburg leader has engaged in three games, Campbell has played in only two league contests, however.

Limited to three points in the Miamisburg game, Freddie Dalton, Xenia forward, dropped to third place in the scoring race with a total of seventeen points. Here is a list of the fourteen highest scorers in the league:

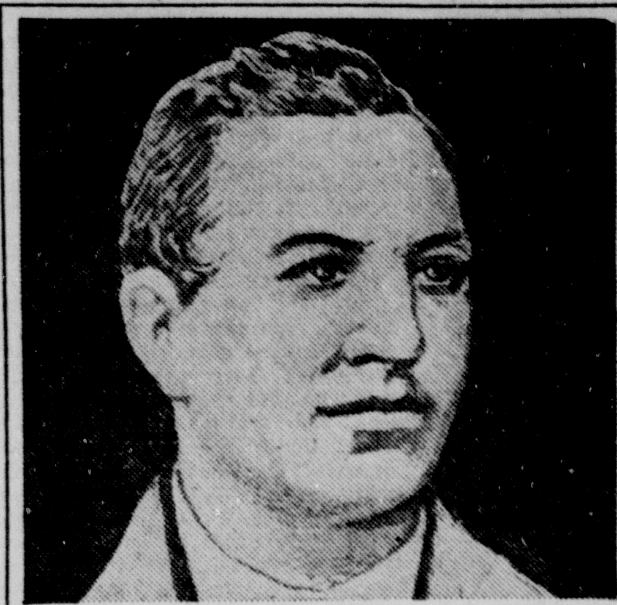

Player	G.	F.	P.
Kelly (M)	10	6	26
Campbell (T)	10	5	25

BOOK RETURN GAME

A return basketball contest between the St. Brigid High and Piqua Catholic High quintets, scheduled for Tuesday night on the Piqua floor, has been postponed until Wednesday night, it is announced. The Piqua cagers hold a 19 to 17 victory over the Xenia Piqua school team, registered earlier in the season at Central High gym here.

BOURBONNAIS, Ill., Jan. 26.—Ray "Bucky" Dahman, Youngstown, Ohio, has resigned as head football and basketball coach at St. Viator's College here, it was learned today. His resignation is effective Feb. 1.

Joe Goss

JOE GOSS was considered by many in 1879 as the heavyweight champion of the world. He had won on a foul from Tom Allen, a famed fighter, near Covington, Ky., fighting in two rings, when police chased the battlers from one county to the next. Goss was not a large man, but he was fast and could hit hard. He really was not the great fighter the public considered him, his Allen victory being unconvincing.

ADVANCE SALE INDICATES FANS WILL FLOCK TO LANG COURT GAME

An advance ticket sale having made reasonably certain the contest will be largely attended, the Lang Chevrolet Falcons and the strong Irvin Coal Co. semi-pro basketball team from South Solon will mingle in a return game at Central High gymnasium Tuesday night.

The Falcons have been nursing revengeful thoughts ever since the night after Christmas when the South Solon cagers handed them a 32 to 29 drubbing. Whereas opportunity usually knocks only once, this will be one time when the Lang basketweavers will have another chance to prove their superiority.

The Falcons believe they will have a slight advantage because they are more accustomed to the Central playing floor.

The Irvin Coals will in all probability present the same lineup which functioned so well against the Xenia quintet at South Solon in the earlier game. Besides Irvin, himself a former Ohio State University star, who plays forward, there will be a number of former Wittenberg College and Springfield High courtsters, including McCann, Mitch, Wichal, Stites and Wile on the visiting team's roster.

WILSON DELIGHTED WITH TRADE TO BROOKLYN; MAY SHINE AGAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Hack Wilson, kicked all over the lot by Lady Luck since he set a National League record of fifty-six home runs in 1930, is getting the finest kind of a break in being bought by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

His ordinary ballplayer would be frothing at the mouth if transferred from the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals to the fourth-place Brooklyn club. But despite his departure from a prospective pennant winner, Wilson is likely to draw twice as much pay with the Dodgers as he would have received from the Cardinals.

Until recently it appeared that

Hack was going to be the victim of the most severe salary cut in baseball history. The pudgy outfielder, who drew a magnificent stipend of $33,000 from the Chicago Cubs last season as a reward for his home run orgy the previous year, got the shock of his life when his new owners, the Cardinals, tendered him a 1932 contract calling for an annual wage of only $7,500.

Sam Breadon of the Cards was adamant when pressed to raise the ante a couple of G's, but Brooklyn took the bait. The Cardinals, feeling that the club is prepared to offer Hack a salary as high as $15,000. Some observers who love to spend other men's money even predict that the costoff may get $20,000.

The picturesque Hack is certain to be a powerful drawing card in Brooklyn if he plays only fair ball, and the Brooklyn club has always been most liberal in paying its stars. Let Hack start knocking the ball out of the lot and the pennant-hungry fans would jam the park.

There are a number of tools on display, the work of boys in the machine shop, and buckets, tins, coffee pots, products of the sheet metal department and many other smaller articles. An interesting display of various kinds of seeds calls attention to the farm shop of the Home printing shop is also an interesting feature.

The entire work has been under the supervision of J. E. Balmer, supervisor of trades at the institution.

All superintendents attending the conference in Cincinnati have been invited to visit the Home Shop, February 7, and it is expected that many others attending the conference will also visit here. The delegation will arrive here about 9:45 a. m. and following church service at 10 a. m. when the Rev. Father Gracy, Cleveland, state chaplain of the American Legion, there will be a tour of inspection of the institution. A business meeting will be held early in the afternoon and a dress parade of the cadet battalion will take place between 3 and 3:30 o'clock. A few hours after quiet had been restored following Sunday's desperate jailbreak attempt, officials learned of a widespread plot to liberate certain of the prison's most vicious criminals through outside aid.

Fans Excited Over Fight

GREAT, THEN, was the delight of Boston fight fans when they read in April, 1880, that, winding up a series of exhibition contests, Goss would meet John L. in an exhibition in Music Hall, which was Boston's largest auditorium. Thousands eagerly sought tickets and a full house for the show was assured though the hall seated 10,000. Before the exhibition began even standing room could not be bought.

Handiwork Of O. S. And S. O. Home Boys Makes Interesting Display In Xenia

ALL types of articles — everything from a wooden rolling pin to a small drill press—that are the handiwork of boys in the trades department of the O. S. and S. O. Home, are drawing considerable attention in a display in the south window of the Adair furniture store, N. Detroit St., this week.

The articles on display, in addition to articles to be made by the girls of the Home, will make up a large exhibit to be shown in connection with the Area D conference of the American Legion Child Welfare division in Cincinnati February 4 and 5.

Everything on display in the Adair window is the work of the boys, who range in age from 12 to 18 years. The small white fence around the display is part of their work and even the flowers and plants to decorate the window were grown by boys in the Home greenhouse.

Among the articles are products from the electrical shop, the machine shop, the auto mechanics' shop, the printing shop, the carpentry shop, sheet metal department, the farm shop, the shoe shop, and the greenhouse. Among the outstanding articles displayed are a 1/2 H. P. gas engine, one H. P. steam engine and a small drill press. All of these articles are constructed so as to run perfectly the same as if constructed by skilled mechanics.

An electrical disc in the corner of the window which is used to call attention to the display is also the handiwork of the boys. It was constructed from the motor of what was formerly a cream separator, and the disc, which is a replica of an old mill, that is also an outstanding article in the display.

John L. Training for Goss

SULLIVAN, though he felt sure he could show up the so-called champion, took no chances. He whipped himself into first-class shape, undergoing a rigorous training. John L. was on edge the night of the show but the fans didn't believe he had a chance. Even his friends believed his remarkable string of victories was near an end. Goss thought so, too. He planned to make a show of John L.

The Goss Fight

The Exhibition Begins

ALMOST from the first blow Goss realized John L. was far from the novice he figured him. Sullivan foiled all his tricks and came out of the clinches having suffered less punishment than the astounded champion. The bout was to go just three rounds, but when the first round was over Goss realized he had a tough two rounds left.

Sidney High School's hopes of winning the Miami Valley League basketball title have depreciated considerably.

The Yellow Jackets, who have beaten Xenia and Troy and are undefeated in league competition, must struggle along in their remaining four league contests with Miamisburg, Fairview, Greenville and Piqua, without the valuable services of Bobby Clark, high scoring guard.

The eight-semester rule has made Clark ineligible for further basketball competition this season. The Sidney star played his last scholastic game against Troy last Friday night, and he had the satisfaction of being personally responsible for Sidney's one-point triumph.

In his farewell appearance, Clark scored fourteen of Sidney's twenty-one points.

The eight-semester playing rule has also just about wrecked Springfield High's basketball team, which Xenia Central plays later this season.

Two of the most brilliant Wildcat stars played their last game against Dayton Roosevelt Saturday night. Mid-year graduation will reach into the ranks of the Springfield cage squad and pluck therefrom Milton Bernstein, flashy forward, and Harry Parrand, stellar guard, both of whom are regulars. Loss of these two players is expected to weaken the team during the balance of the season.

Undeclared this season, North High of Columbus is this department's selection to win the state basketball title this year.

North Cagers beat Portsmouth, 1931 state champions, by seven or eight points on the defending champions' own floor the other night. Columbus West, conqueror of Xenia Central, lost to North by a margin greater than forty points some weeks ago.

Ping-pong, which has become a favorite indoor sport here, is also staging a comeback in popularity elsewhere. For example, at Cleveland the first annual city ping-pong tourney is soon to be held, and if entries can be judged as an accurate estimation, the sport is experiencing a great revival of interest there. The tourney is scheduled for January 27-30 with the winner going to Chicago to compete for the national championship.

Protests in behalf of women fans of the game have been entered vigorously by one Cleveland feminine devotee who has succeeded in obtaining a promise for the Cleveland chapter of the American Ping-Pong Association of a woman's meet later on in the season.

XENIA GRANGE WINS FROM B. B. F. TEAM

A basket by R. Fudge, forward, from side court in the last thirty seconds of play broke a 14 to 14 deadlock and enabled the Xenia Grange basketball team to defeat the B. B. F. quintet, 16 to 14, thereby registering its first victory of the season at Central High gymnasium Saturday night. The B. B. F. team was leading at the intermission, 9 to 6. R. Fudge tallied eight points for the Grange cagers, while C. Ferguson and B. Bickett were high scorers for the losers.

Sam Breadon of the Cards was adamant when pressed to raise the ante a couple of G's, but Brooklyn will take the rubber off the bank roll to save Wilson's wounded feelings. According to reports today, the club is prepared to offer Hack a salary as high as $15,000. Some observers who love to predict other men's money even spend that the costoff may get $20,000.

The picturesque Hack is certain to be a powerful drawing card in Brooklyn if he plays only fair ball, and the Brooklyn club has always been most liberal in paying its stars. Let Hack start knocking the ball out of the lot and the pennant hungry fans would jam the park.

GRAND JURY ACTION IS THREATENED ON FLEMING CHARGES

SPRINGFIELD, O., Jan. 26.—Grand jury action may be taken as a result of the long delay in the arrest of Grover W. Fleming, editor and publisher of the Ohio Examiner, who is wanted both in Springfield and Columbus.

Prosecutor Orville Wear intimates some action might be taken following the admission of law enforcement agencies that they were unable to locate the editor.

Fleming is wanted here on an affidavit filed in municipal court by Major Henry H. Buck, U. S. Secret Service officer at Cincinnati, charging the circulation of false rumors about a banking institution. He is wanted in Columbus on charges of criminal libel filed in Franklin County Common Pleas Court.

Both charges resulted from articles appearing in the Ohio Examiner, a weekly paper.

TROOPS PREVENT FURTHER RIOTING

PRINCETOWN, Eng., Jan. 26.—One hundred heavily armed British soldiers, comprising two platoons of the Worcester Regiment, today were placed at strategic positions about Dartmoor prison in anticipation of an attack upon the institution's walls by friends of inmates.

A few hours after quiet had been restored following Sunday's desperate jailbreak attempt, officials learned of a widespread plot to liberate certain of the prison's most vicious criminals through outside aid.

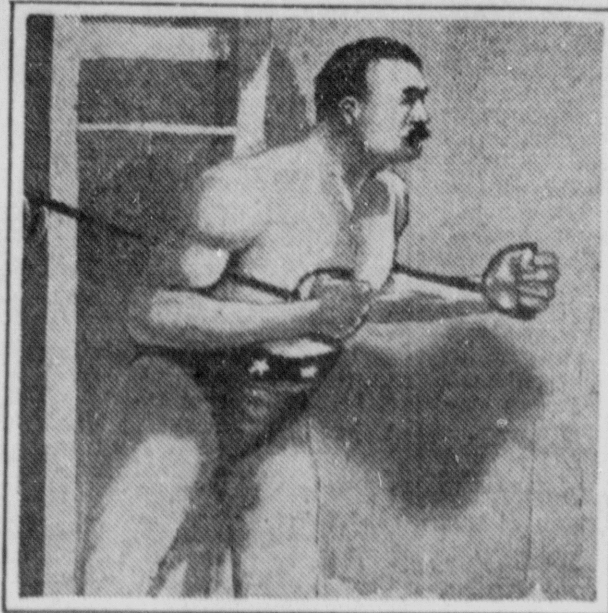

COMMISSION PREFERRED
SEATTLE, Wash.—A commission, rather than an engineer, to plan, build and maintain Washington's system of highways, is proposed by the Washington State Grange and the Washington Good Road Association.

WILL SAIL FEB. 6
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt will sail from Seattle on February 6 to assume his post as governor general of the Philippines, he announced today.

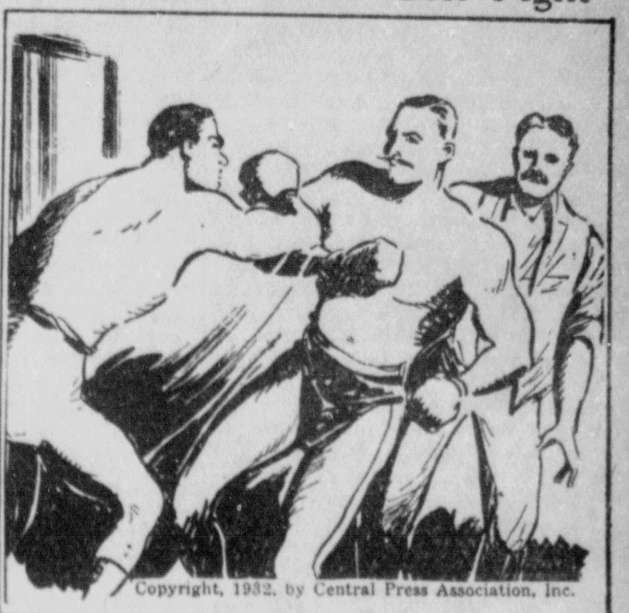

Fans Excited Over Fight

GREAT, THEN, was the delight of Boston fight fans when they read in April, 1880, that, winding up a series of exhibition contests, Goss would meet John L. in an exhibition in Music Hall, which was Boston's largest auditorium. Thousands eagerly sought tickets and a full house for the show was assured though the hall seated 10,000. Before the exhibition began even standing room could not be bought.

John L. Training for Goss

SULLIVAN, though he felt sure he could show up the so-called champion, took no chances. He whipped himself into first-class shape, undergoing a rigorous training. John L. was on edge the night of the show but the fans didn't believe he had a chance. Even his friends believed his remarkable string of victories was near an end. Goss thought so, too. He planned to make a show of John L.

The Exhibition Begins

ALMOST from the first blow Goss realized John L. was far from the novice he figured him. Sullivan foiled all his tricks and came out of the clinches having suffered less punishment than the astounded champion. The bout was to go just three rounds, but when the first round was over Goss realized he had a tough two rounds left.

WEDNESDAY—Goss Defeated.

Handiwork Of O. S. And S. O. Home Boys Makes Interesting Display In Xenia

ALL types of articles — everything from a wooden rolling pin to a small drill press—that are the handiwork of boys in the trades department of the O. S. and S. O. Home, are drawing considerable attention in a display in the south window of the Adair furniture store, N. Detroit St., this week.

The articles on display, in addition to articles to be made by the girls of the Home, will make up a large exhibit to be shown in connection with the Area D conference of the American Legion Child Welfare division in Cincinnati February 4 and 5.

Everything on display in the Adair window is the work of the boys, who range in age from 12 to 18 years. The small white fence around the display is part of their work and even the flowers and plants to decorate the window were grown by boys in the Home greenhouse.

Among the articles are products from the electrical shop, the machine shop, the auto mechanics' shop, the printing shop, the carpentry shop, sheet metal department, the farm shop, the shoe shop and the greenhouse. Among the outstanding articles displayed are a 1/2 H. P. gas engine, one H. P. steam engine and a small drill press. All of these articles are constructed so as to run perfectly the same as if constructed by skilled mechanics.

An electrical disc in the corner of the window which is used to call attention to the display is also the handiwork of the boys. It was constructed from the motor of what was formerly a cream separator. Then there is a miniature landscape set-up, which is a replica of an old mill, that is also an outstanding article in the display.

There are a number of tools on display, the work of boys in the machine shop, and buckets, tins, coffee pots, products of the sheet metal department and many other smaller articles. An interesting display of various kinds of seeds calls attention to the farm shop of what the display of work from the Home printing shop is also an interesting feature.

The entire work has been under the supervision of J. E. Balmer, supervisor of trades at the institution.

All superintendents attending the conference in Cincinnati have been invited to visit the Home Sunday, February 7, and it is expected that many others attending the conference will also visit here. The delegation will arrive here about 9:45 a. m. when the sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Father Gracey, Cleveland, state chaplain of the American Legion, there will be a tour of inspection of the institution. A business meeting will be held early in the afternoon and a dress parade of the cadet battalion will take place between 3 and 3:30 o'clock. Mrs. Frederick Charles Williams, Indianapolis, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Robert Weber, Dayton, grand chief of the Ohio Forty and Eight Society, and many other notables are expected to be at the Home with the delegation.

In connection with the child welfare conference in Cincinnati February 4 and 5 superintendents of all Soldiers' and Sailors' Homes in the United States have been invited. The O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band and the Home Glee Club will furnish music at the banquet and at programs in connection with the conference, it is announced.

Lipstick Girl A Romance of a Little Beauty By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER Author of 'DAD'S GIRL', 'JORETTA' and 'LOVE PREFERRED'

CHAPTER 32

VIVIAN MOYER was curled up in the swing on the porch, with an open book on her knees. It was almost dark, but that was not why she had stopped reading. Actually, she had not read a word since she came out of the house. That was the way most of her leisure time passed, in these days—lost to memories. The weeks had made little difference in her anguish. All her brave resolutions and defiant efforts resolved into—just aching memories.

She was thinking about Marcia's bright, sympathetic letters, with their empty advice and hollow platitudes. Marcia was a darling, but what did she know about love? She who trampled Ted's faithful heart under her feet, who talked of searching the earth for romance and couldn't see it before her very eyes. Yes—love was something for which you could search the world, and yet miss it when it was right beside you. Not for one moment had she really doubted Eugene Campean. Something had happened that was quite beyond her power. Vivian knew, to keep him from coming to her. There were times when she tried to doubt him, for her own sanity, but reason itself told her differently. What was love, anyway, if it were not faith?

Well, she had had her little hour of happiness. Perhaps that was all some people were granted. Somehow, she would struggle on, and find peace in service, in a drab existence that would be lighted all the way by the shining glow of that brief joy which she had known.

A sudden step on the sidewalk startled her, but she decided that it was only Dave coming home. It was not Dave, however. Seeing who it was, Vivian uttered a little cry of joy and fear, as if half fearing that her meditation had conjured for her a spectral vision.

Eugene crossed the porch to her quickly, and took her in his arms. He placed a finger on her lips to admonish silence, and whispered, "Quiet, darling. Have you wondered why I did not come? I could not, believe me. Did you want me to come back?" He held her off to peer into her face.

With a little moan, she buried her face into his breast. "Wanted you? Oh, Gene, I wished to die. But it's all right, now. You are here again," she sobbed.

"My sweet," he murmured against her hair. "Listen to me, dear. I can't stay long, and I don't want you to tell anyone that I am here, except Ted. Can you telephone him for me?"

"Of course. But, Gene, do tell me about it." She was strong now, ready to help the man she loved because he needed her.

"I can't, dear. Please do as I ask. Tell Stanton to come here and go back to Springfield with me as soon as possible. The plane needs a mechanic, and I can't trust anyone else. I'll stay here with you until he comes."

She obeyed his orders and was back in the swing beside him, bewildered at his sudden appearance, and his strange secretiveness. He drew her into his arms and said, "Thank you, darling. Now I wonder if you will do the rest that I ask, so willingly. Vi, will you fly away with me tonight, forever?"

His words stunned her, and thrilled her at the same time. "Why, Gene—where—I don't understand—"

"I can't explain, Vi. Do you love me?"

"Oh, Gene. If you could know what these weeks have been—" she shuddered.

"Then come away with me tonight. I don't know when I ever could come back to you here. It might be months. I'll take care of you, Vi—"

"You mean—we should be married, and—"

"Of course I can't promise you when, and I can't explain why. You will just have to trust me, if you love me enough."

"Oh, I do love and trust you, Gene—enough."

"Then you will come with me?"

"But how? What can I tell them?"

"Tell your mother that Stanton wants you to drive to Springfield with him. Then pick me up at the next corner. Tell Stanton nothing, except that you want to drive over with us and come back with him. We can handle him later when we have to. Lots of girls elope. You can send a message, ask to your mother by him—and that is that."

She was sitting upright now, her heart pounding wildly, breathing fast. The call of youth to love, the challenge of life to love. In a flash, her mind reviewed the torture of the past weeks. He had said that it might be months before—

"I'll go with you, Gene," she whispered.

"Listen! Run in and pack some things in a bag. I'll take it with me, and go to the corner before Stanton arrives. You know the rest. Wear a warm coat, dear. We shall probably fly all night."

Vivian slipped upstairs cautiously. Mumsy was in the kitchen, starting preparations for early breakfast. She must get the bag down to Gene before Mumsy entered the kitchen. Her hands trembled when she tried to use them. There was no time to think, so she gathered a few things together, blindly, not much knowing or caring what they were. All she needed was Gene's love, anyway. She succeeded in taking the bag down to the porch where Gene was waiting, before her mother appeared.

He took her into his arms for a moment, pressed a burning kiss on her submissive lips, and whispered, "I'll be waiting for you at the corner. Then he was gone into the night, as suddenly and mysteriously as he had appeared only a few minutes before. Vivian passed the back of her hand over her eyes with a little bewildered gesture of mingled emotion and amazement at the events of the past half hour. What sudden turns life did take, she thought. Just when you thought you could endure the worst of it no longer, it turned the corner from the ugly, difficult road into a lane of sunshine and happiness.

Then she thought of her mother with a twinge of remorse. This thing that she was doing would be a shock to her. But Mumsy would understand, she assured herself. Mumsy had known love and the challenge it made to you, and would forgive her heart. Then she heard Ted coming down the street, and drew in her breath sharply. Her moment had come.

She was at the curb when he stopped.

"Is it a fact that you've seen Gene?" he asked.

"Yes," her voice was glad, "and, Ted, I'm going to drive to Springfield with you, to be with him as long as I can."

"Okay with me. Where is he?"

"What's up?"

"I don't know, but he will tell you. Just wait until I get my coat and hat."

"Where is he?"

"I'll tell you when I come back," she called, already half way to the house.

She met Mumsy in the hall, and thought she was on her way to find her, the sudden encounter, which would be their last moment together for perhaps a long time, startled Vivian.

The words came from her lips halting. "Mumsy, Ted is going to Springfield and wants me to go along with him. Do you mind if I do?" Already, she had opened the hall closet and was taking down her coat, with her face averted from her mother.

"Why, no, of course not. The drive will be good for you."

"In Ted's jolly little car?" she laughed nervously. She would be flying on wings before the night was over, she thought. "Well, goodbye Mumsy. I don't think we shall be late, but don't wait up for me." She embraced her mother with a lingering desperation, and her parting kiss was all out of proportion to the occasion, but Mrs. Moyer interpreted this in the light of her recent grief. She was an emotional child, anyway, and more demonstrative than Marcia was. Life would be more difficult for Vivian, she feared. Halfway down the sidewalk, the girl looked back, like Lot's wife, with a wistful sorrow for the life of the past and a fear for the unknown future. Her mother's slightly stooped figure was framed in the doorway of light from the hall, and she had to dash the tears from her eyes as she climbed into the car beside Ted.

Eugene was waiting at the corner as he had promised, and Ted was not a little surprised when they joined him so soon. He looked quickly from Eugene to Vivian, sensing something not quite above-board. His silent inquiry was answered by the man.

"I know this looks funny, Stanton, but it's all okay. I am under orders that I can't tell you about and actually have no right to be here at all. But I had to see Vivian, and the motor was acting up so I didn't dare to go on through with it."

Ted had been driving slowly as he listened to the explanation, soberly; now he sped up as if he were satisfied and had dismissed any part of the affair from his mind, except to reach their destination as quickly as possible.

PRAYER PRESENT CHURCH NEED CRUSADE SPEAKER DECLARES

Taking his text from Nehemiah 2:18 "So they strengthened their hands for this great work" Evangelist Ralph E. Stewart spoke Monday evening in the Tabernacle, E. Third St., on "Strengthened Hands."

He said in part: "I want to consider with you what Nehemiah and his followers did by way of strengthening their hands for the great undertaking, for what they held in the Holy Ghost in lives. What we need in America today is to 'take time to be holy.'"

The evangelist then continued by saying: "They strengthened their hands by looking the needs squarely in the face. We are told that Nehemiah went about the city and found the debris and rubbish. So great was the need that his heart burned with desire to meet it. Alas, we lack that passionate passion that led Jesus Christ to take a well curb for his pulpit and one lost sinner for his congregation and tell her of the water of life. In studying the great work that Nehemiah began we learn that everybody did something. They were willing workers."

Homer Hammonette, songleader and Paul Beckwith, pianist, arrived here Monday from Grand Rapids, Mich., and took part in Monday evening's service. Mr. Hammonette is planning to organize a choir of more than 100 voices.

did then the church of Jesus Christ needs to do now. First of all they strengthened their hands by earnest, prevailing prayer. The great need of the church today is intercessory secret prayer. . . . It isn't more members the churches need. Mr. Stewart will speak on "The in Xenia need, it's the outpouring of the Holy Ghost in lives."

Cottage prayer meetings were held in forty-two Xenia homes Tuesday morning and in the afternoon the first meeting for boys and girls was held at the Tabernacle. The evening service will begin at 7:30 o'clock and the Rev. Mr. Stewart will speak on "The Faithfulness of God."

STEEL AND RAIL INDUSTRIES LEAD IN BUSINESS REVIVAL

GARY, Ind., Jan. 26—Credit for taking the lead in business revival was given today to the steel and railroad industries.

Work for hundreds of men was provided with orders for steel rails and cars totaling $2,500,000 to Indiana's calumet district. Nine thousand tons of rails will be rolled for the Chicago and Erie Railroad.

The order was divided between the United States Steel Co. at Gary and South Chicago and the Inland Steel Co. at Indiana Harbor.

Twenty-five refrigerator cars will be built at the shops of the Cudahy Packing Plant in East Chicago and 150 hopper cars for the Northern Pacific will be built by the Pressed Steel Car Co. at Hegewisch, Indiana Harbor and Gary mills will turn out 2,000 tons of steel for the cars.

East Chicago mills have received large orders for tinplate from mid-western canners. Several thousand men are expected to be recalled when the Shipmates Ahoy!

The life of a sailor may have its moments of hardship, but with shipmates like those above the main could do all the bounding it wanted and no one would grumble. The fair sailorettes are Ann Swanson, left, of Chicago, and Jewell Watkins, of New York, pictured on one of the sailing vessels that took part in the opening of the yachting season at Miami Beach, Fla.

Carrie Chapman Catt To Be Heard On NBC Network

By MILDRED MASON
CARRIE Chapman Catt, famous woman suffrage leader and founder of the Council on Cause and Cure of War will review the annual council conference now in session at Washington D. C. when she speaks over an NBC network Wednesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. She will be heard through station WLW, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Catt, who organized the council from the eleven largest women's associations in the United States, will be the last speaker in a series of disarmament from the woman's point of view.

Representative of Air.
Representative Florentino H. LaGuardia, of New York, will speak on "Taxes, Lobbying and Freedom of the Air" during a program to be broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network Wednesday at 8 p. m.

To Discuss Games.
Gustavus Towne Kirby, past president of the American Olympic committee, will discuss the coming winter Olympic games with Grantland Rice over an NBC network through WSAL, Cincinnati, Wednesday at 10 p. m. Kirby, who has seen every Olympic since 1896, will recall past performances and talk about some of the stars who will participate in the 1932 games at Lake Placid in February.

Baritone Is Guest.
Artists Dickson, baritone and character impersonator, will sing "Nicholas" and "That's Why Darkies Were Born" when he appears as guest artist on a program over station WKRC, Cincinnati, and the Columbia network Wednesday at 10 p. m. Freddie Rich's orchestra will play a medley of tunes from the new Broadway musical comedy burlesque of politics, "Of Thee I Sing."

Did You Know.
That Carol Dees, formerly of Dayton, who is now heard on NBC programs always locks her hands behind her head when singing into the microphone. . . . That Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson, NBC stars, commute by motor every week between Springfield, Mass., and New York for their broadcasts. . . . That Madame Sylvia, whose health and beauty chats are featured over an NBC network every Friday noon, once sold lumber for a living. . . . That British announcers must remain anonymous, even in publicity matter. . . . That little Antonia Gilman, 8, who plays the lead in the Lucky Kids program over WKRC on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, wants to do up her hair as her two long pigtailers are too convenient for production managers grab them to draw her to or away from the microphone. . . . That they say Roxie will be back on the air soon in person. . . . That Glenn of the team, Gene and Glenn, is fast becoming a musical virtuoso and already has mastered the violin, piano, cornet and saxophone?

TEXT BOOK RENTAL SYSTEM
INDIANAPOLIS—A text book rental system for all grades in public schools has been proposed by Paul C. Stetson, superintendent of schools here. The move has the sanction of the city's text book committee. Such a system would effect a great savings for school patrons, it was pointed out.

Marian Nixon Gets Break; Winchell Burned At Stake

Marian Nixon has travelled the long and difficult come-back road and now has another long-term contract almost within her grasp—good news to her many friends.

For plans to sign her after she permitted him to use the information in a "Scott's Valley" opposite Warner Baxter, her third assignment in a row at this studio. She started out in a "Charlie Chan" thriller and is just completing a role opposite Charlie Farrell.

For all her youth, Marian is a comparatively old-timer in Hollywood. She is one of the many film stars who began their screen careers at Mack Sennett's and before that she was a dancer. She and her husband, Edward Hillman Jr., are both popular among the film folk.

Her honeymoon scarcely over, Arline Judge must get on with her career as cinema home-wrecker. She plays the feminine menace in "Veneer", a dance-hall romance.

BIG SISTER—The Knock of Opportunity

WITH THE TRAMP IN THE HOUSE BETH IS AT A LOSS TO KNOW HOW TO GET THE COAT AWAY FROM HIM. SHE IS FIGHTING FORTIME HOPING AN IDEA WILL STRIKE HER.

I'VE GOT TO KEEP ON FEEDING HIM TIL I THINK OF SOME WAY TO GET THAT COAT. BUT IF HE EATS ANY MORE, I'M AFRAID HE'LL BURST!

HERE'S SOME MORE HOT—OH!! WHY-WHY! YOU'VE BURST YOUR COAT! NOW ISN'T THAT TOO—WAIT NOW! I'LL TELL YOU TAKE IT RIGHT OFF AND I'LL MEND IT WHILE YOU FINISH YOUR MEAL!

DAT'S NOT A BAD IDEA A-TALL, KID. HERE YARB!

GOOD! IT WON'T TAKE ME BUT A MINUTE

O, GEE, O, GEE! I'VE GOT IT! I'VE GOT TH' COAT!! WHERE ARE TH' SCISSORS? QUICK! WHERE ARE TH' SCISSORS?

THE GUMPS—Old Man Gump

IT IS ALL DECIDED—THAT MILLIE IS TO BE SHIPPED HOME BAG AND BAGGAGE AS SOON AS THE BOAT DOCKS—AND ALL ON ACCOUNT OF BIM GUMP—

THAT LET'S ME OUT!! I'M AN EPIDEMIC WITH THE DAMES

REALLY—HE IS NICE—THERE ACTUALLY OUGHT TO BE A HEAVY FINE FOR HAVING SUCH DIVINE WAVY BROWN HAIR

THERE I GO! I JUST GOT MY FINGERS BURN'T FOR LETTING A BOY HOLD MY HAND TOO LONG NOW I START RUNNING A TEMPERATURE OVER THE FIRST ONE I MEET!!

MUGGS—McGINNIS—Room and Board!!

SO JACK CAME UP TO ME AN' SAYS "THIS WAS AFTER TH' TOLEDO FIGHT—HE SAYS "BLUENOSE, TH' CREDIT ALL GOES TO YOU, WIDOUT YER HELPFUL GUIDANCE I COULD NEVER HAVE DONE IT!" HE SAYS!! THAT JUST GOES TO SHOW YA HOW TH' RINGS BIG BOYS FEEL ABOUT "BLUENOSE" MULLIGAN!! I COULD TELL YA SOME SWEET THINGS THAT GENTLEMAN JIM AND GENE, AN' SOME OF TH' BOYS HAVE SAID—BUT YA MIGHT THINK I WAS BRAGGIN'!

GOSH!! DO YA THINK YOU COULD MAKE A FIGHTER OUTTA ME, HUH, MR. BLUENOSE?

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT!! AND I'D LOVE TO ACCOMMODATE YOUSE—SPECIALLY AFTER YOUSE STAKED ME TO SUCH A DELICIOUS LIL' REPAST—BUT THAT WOULD TAKE TIME—AND YA SEE I HAVE DISPOSED OF ME WINTER HOME HERE—AND HOTEL LIFE BORES ME—SO—AS I'VE NO PLACE TO STAY—I REALLY MUST PUSH ON—

GEE!! AT'S TOUGH!! I WISH YA WOULD STAY—MAYBE YA COULD MAKE A CHAMPION OUT OF ME TOO!!

OF COURSE!! OF COURSE!! BUT AS I SAY—A MAN HAS TO HAVE A PLACE TO SLEEP AN' SOMETHIN' TO EAT—AN' WITH TH' DEPRESSION AN' ALL—I JUST CAN'T AFFORD T' STOP OVER—MUCH AS I'D LIKE TO START YOUSE ON YER WAY TO FAME AN' FORTUNE!!

SAY!! I'VE GOT IT, BLUENOSE!! I'M PRESIDENT OF TH' ALLEY CATS!! IT'S A CLUB—AN' WE'VE GOT A SWELL CLUB HOUSE MADE OUTTA A PIANO BOX OVER BY TH' GAS HOUSE!! YOU COULD STAY AT TH' CLUB FREE—AN' YA CAN TEACH TH' GUYS TO BOX AN' THEY COULD PAY YA WITH POTATOES AN' CAKE, AN' STUFF, SEE?

OH, SURE!! AND I'VE GOT AN OL' COFFEE POT US KIDS USE FER CAMPIN'—I'LL BRING THAT OVER TOO—COME ON, LET'S TAKE A LOOK AT TH' CLUB—

FRED WILLIAMSON
MADE PRESIDENT OF
NEW SHEEP GROWERS

Fred Williamson was elected president of the Greene County Sheep and Wool Growers' Association at a meeting of flock owners at Xenia Friday afternoon. Other officers elected were William Wilkerson, Osborn, vice president and Homer Snively, Yellow Springs, secretary.

The object of this new organization, which is purely educational, is to provide means and methods for the improvement of sheep, lambs and wool.

Membership in the association consists of sheep growers who are interested in the program of the association. No dues will be charged.

A board of directors consisting of one man from each township will be selected and they, with the officers, will formulate the program for the year.

L. A. Kauffman of the department of animal husbandry of Ohio State University, who spoke at the meeting, said that while present prices of sheep and wool were low liquidation was taking place on the western range and the sheep population has been decreased rapidly. He stressed the need of producing both lambs and fleece of high quality.

J. F. Walker, secretary of the Ohio Wool Growers' Association said Ohio has the reputation of producing lambs and wool of low quality and that $200,000 is lost annually in Ohio because of bad shearing and caring for the fleece.

HELD TO GRAND JURY
FOR GRAND LARCENY

Charged with grand larceny, Henry Hopkins, 21, and Ernest Runkel, 33, both of Cedarville, were held to the Clark County grand jury following a preliminary hearing Monday in Municipal Court at Springfield, at which they pleaded not guilty.

Bonds, previously fixed at $1,000, were ordered raised to $2,500 each by Judge Fred A. Wagner, who remanded the pair to jail in default of bond.

The charges against Hopkins and Runkel are based on the theft of forty-six chickens from the farm of Mrs. Ida Kinley, near South Charleston. Authorities of Greene County made the arrests and turned the men over to Clark County for prosecution.

AUTO RECOVERED,
ANOTHER STOLEN

Recovery of one stolen auto was announced Tuesday by the sheriff's office, which was also notified of the theft of another car Monday night.

A Ford roadster, 1929 model, belonging to Howard Brickell, 117 S. Detroit St., stolen from Yellow Springs at 12:30 a. m. Monday, was found abandoned later the same day at Goose by J. E. Bailey, who informed the sheriff.

A report was also received of the theft of a Chevrolet coach, 1928 model, belonging to S. R. Freeman, R. R. 3, Xenia, taken Monday night from its parking place on S. Detroit St. The car bore license number D27,912.

INCREASE IN AUTO
SALES IS REPORTED

DETROIT, Jan. 26.—More than 1,500,000 new passenger automobiles were sold in the United States in 1931, a report by R. L. Polk and Co., official compilers of figures on automobile and truck registrations, today disclosed.

The estimate is based on reports of thirty-eight states for twelve months and all states for eleven months. December sales were estimated at 79,100 units, an increase of 4.31 per cent over the total for November 1931. Definite trends toward an upturn in sales were seen in this increase for it was the first experienced by motordom since April 1931.

MIDGET "OLD IRONSIDES" GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—A miniature reproduction of "Old Ironsides," American frigate in the war of 1812, has been turned out by Andrew Kozlowski, amateur wood-worker of this city. The boat is 3 1/2 feet high, 4 1/2 feet long and is full-rigged and armed with fifty-two brass cannons. One hundred seven pieces of wood were used in its construction.

Mrs. Mildred Simms, E. Church St., who has been the guest of relatives in Chicago, for about two months, has returned home.

Mrs. Cora Hawkins, E. Main St., has been indoors for over a week with a sprained ankle.

Mrs. Cora Hawkins, E. Main St., has been indoors for over a week with a sprained ankle.

Mr. Robert Craig, formerly of this city, passed away at his home in Columbus, Wednesday, January 20. He is survived by one sister, Miss Clara Craig of this city, an aunt, Mrs. Julia Austin and one niece, Mrs. Olivia Mason.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay of Columbus, in company with Louise and Wade Robert, were visitors at Mrs. Eula Kennedy and family, E. Main St. Sunday. Returning they were accompanied home by Mrs. Louise Grilchrist, who has spent the greater portion of the winter with her aunt and other relatives.

Although the collection is progressing up to expectations, County Treasurer Harold Van Pelt desires to again remind taxpayers who are not yet in the fold that the deadline date for the payment without delinquency of real estate, delinquent personal and special assessment taxes for the first half of 1931 is rapidly nearing. The last day is February 1, after which a 10 per cent penalty will automatically become effective.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets brings no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS TAKE LESSONS IN MOTHERHOOD

right, the same age as Fred, gets a miniature shower bath at the hands of Suzanne; lower left, two students, Frances and Jean, receive a lesson in baby dressing from Miss Mary McMahon, trained nurse, the model being wee Frank; while six-month-old

Fred, right, seems a bit surprised at his surroundings and the care of Shirley, left, and Hermie. The babies chosen for the experiments are all healthy and of good social background. They pass the day at the school while their mothers work.

REPORTS HOG THEFT

T. B. Smith, tenant farmer on the Schweibold farm, Cincinnati Pike, about six miles south of Xenia, notified the sheriff's office Monday that a hog weighing about 250 pounds, valued at $8, had been stolen over the week end from the place. The thief stuck the porker then dragged it across a field to the Richland Road.

CLIFTON
There will be a Missionary Tea at the home of Mrs. Douglass Luse next Thursday afternoon.
The funeral of Mr. Benjamin Boolman was conducted last Thursday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Hazelett by Rev. Wm. Wilson of Columbus, O.
Mr. Boolman had been an invalid for a number of years and was 77 years of age.
At a meeting of the Presbyterian Missionary Society at the home of Mrs. A. E. Swaby: Mrs. Maurice Coleman, and Mrs. C. C. Eckman, assisting hostesses, the old officers were reelected as follows: president, Florence K. White; vice-president, Mrs. Orville Shaw; secretary, Miss Mary Knatt; assistant, Mrs. J. A. Filson; treasurer, Mrs. James Swaby; assistant, Mrs. R. H. Corry.
Mrs. Elizabeth Hopping spent the week end with her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Todd, in Springfield.
Mr. Chester Swaby was pleasantly surprised by a company of friends and relatives at his home on the Yellow Springs Pike, Thursday evening, the occasion being his birthday. Nineteen were present.
Friends and patients of Dr. F. C. Adams and wife who have been seriously ill at McClellan Hospital, Xenia, are glad to know they are both somewhat improved.
Mr. and Mrs. James Swaby entertained fifteen Springfield friends at their home on the Yellow Springs Pike, Saturday evening. There will be a meeting of Clark Co. S. Schools at the Presbyterian Church next Sabbath afternoon, Jan. 31st. Prof. Helsey, of Wittenberg College, Springfield, will be one of the speakers.
